Mrs. Justice Awaits Word from 'Charley'

At noon today Mrs. John Justice, rear 220 E. Main St., had heard nothing from her husband, a serviceman living on a crumbling ice island, in the Arctic Ocean.

Staff Sgt. Justice, a Circleville man, is a cook on Station Charley, a disintegrating ice floe which has housed a scientific expedition.

The Air Force planned two flights today to take out more equipment.

Five men were flown out Monday, making a total of 17 who have been evacuated since the ice pack began to break up 400 miles northwest of Pt. Barrow, Alaska last Wednesday.

The Air Force said two flights a day would be scheduled until the remaining men and equipment have been withdrawn. Thursday is the target date for completion of the mission.

The island, initially two miles long, has been reduced to one-fifth its original size. However, the C130 transports being used in the evacuation have plenty of room in which to land and takeoff, the Air Force said.

Johnson Gains Backing against Dem Liberals

Senate Leader Shuns Demand for Greater Voice in Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas stood firm today against demands of party liberals for a greater voice in policy decisions.

Evidently backed by a top-heavy majority of his party colleagues, Johnson was reported unwilling to yield his power to appoint new Democratic Policy Committee members. A companion proposal to enlarge the group also drew opposition.

His lone concession to insurgents led by Sens. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) and Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) came in his call for an afternoon caucus for a discussion of the policy matter, along with a clean elections bill and a school construction measure.

The two bills were expected to be cleared earlier by the nine-member policy group for Senate action in the next few days.

Johnson himself was silent. But a source close to the leader said that if the insurgents force any changes in the party machinery they will have to do it through a majority vote of the 65 Democrats. Any such efforts appeared marked for certain defeat.

Gore, who proposed that the policy committee membership be increased from 9 to 15, told the Senate Monday he thinks "Lyndon Johnson is the ablest Democrat who has served in this Senate in my lifetime."

"This is a matter of principle, of party responsibility, not a matter of personality," he said.

The Tennessee senator said, however, that party policy ought to be developed which, while it would not be binding on individual senators, would serve as a yardstick to measure party loyalty.

He said the Democrats ought to pass bills conforming to such policy and send them to the White House regardless of veto threats. Johnson has followed the policy of tailoring legislation to avoid vetoes if possible. He has contended that it is better to enact legislation than to make a political record.

Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, head of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he was curious why Gore chose to air his complaints in the Senate rather than wait for the closed party meeting.

"Because here I can be heard. Behind closed doors I can be steam-rollered," Gore replied tartly.

Arrests Mount in Campaign Against Anti-Jewish Wave

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arrests mounted today in a growing campaign against the worldwide wave of anti-Jewish incidents.

But in the wake of more racist displays, a world Jewish leader urged a U. N. investigation to seek out the reasons for the outbreak of hate-mongering, now in its 20th day.

In West Germany, where the Christmas Eve desecration of a Cologne synagogue started the wave, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer warned of the consequences of continued anti-Semitic activity. Obviously referring to the Communist bloc nations, Adenauer said in a West Berlin telecast: "One must clearly understand that such incidents will be utilized by the enemies of our people—and as you know, Germany still has very many enemies—who will say that the Germans are the same as they used to be."

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano urged the country to be on the lookout for the "criminals and fools" responsible for painting swastikas and anti-Semitic slogans. He said they should be put away in a lunatic asylum.

West Berlin police found cartoon posters linking Adenauer and various of his ministers with the anti-Semitic demonstrations and with Hitlerism. There was suspicion that the posters originated in Communist East Germany. Police arrested two men for putting up the cartoons.

Three incidents were reported in Britain. Schoolboys admitted being the guilty parties in one case, describing it as a prank.

Police in Florence, Italy, caught three youths painting swastikas. In Foggia, in southeastern Italy, three students were arrested for plastering anti-Semitic slogans on public buildings.

The U. N. investigation was recommended by Dr. Maurice L. Perle, a representative of the World Jewish Congress.

He told the opening meeting of the U. N. subcommittee on prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities that the issues involved represent a matter "of life or death" for many of the world's minorities. He said a thorough study would give governments an idea of how to deal with the problem.

CLARENCE CUNNINGHAM

University Board of Trustees, Cunningham will be the 4-H Supervisor in the 22 northwestern Ohio counties.

In his new position, he will be working with the county extension agents, 4-H, regarding 4-H club programs in the 22 counties. He also will assist with the conduct of district and state 4-H activities, as well as helping in preparation of 4-H literature.

Cunningham has served as the County Extension Agent, 4-H, in Pickaway County since September 1957. Prior to coming to Pickaway County, he taught school for two years in Union County and then served in the U. S. Army. He has both his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from the Ohio State University in Agricultural Education. He is a member of Gamma Sigma Delta, national agricultural honorary fraternity.

He is a former 1-year 4-H club member in Wayne County, where his father still resides on the home farm.

Cunningham and his wife, Jean, have one boy, Larry David, born just before Christmas.

THE CUNNINGHAMS plan to move to Columbus later this year. Plans are under way to obtain a replacement for Cunningham within the next month or two.

Federal Judge Orders End to Voter Purge

1,377 Negro Names Are Restored to List in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A U.S. District Court decree today ordered voting privileges returned to 1,377 Negroes purged from the Washington Parish rolls by small technicalities.

Judge J. Skelly Wright issued the decree Monday in a suit filed last June 29 through the government's civil rights division under the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

The defendants were the White Citizens Council of Washington Parish, four council members who had challenged the Negroes' rights to vote, and Curtis M. Thomas, registrar of voters in the southeastern Louisiana parish.

The suit noted that while 1,377 Negroes had been challenged, only 10 white voters were removed. The government claimed that Citizens Council had challenged Negro registrants for minor technicalities such as exact ages and misspelled words while nothing was done about white registrants who made the same mistakes.

Judge Wright's decree also forbade the four individual members of the Citizens Council from "causing or initiating challenges or filing any affidavits of challenge which have as their purpose or effect discrimination based on race or color against any registrants."

The individuals were Diaz D. McElveen, E. Ray McElveen, Saxon Farmer and Eugene Farmer. The council was enjoined from causing or participating in the filing of such challenges.

Judge Wright enjoined Thomas from giving any legal effect to the 1,377 challenges filed against Negroes between Feb. 1, 1959 and June 16, 1959, or from giving effect to any challenges which might be filed for the purpose of discriminating against a voter because of race.

Judge Wright ordered Thomas to file a detailed report of compliance within 10 days. He further ordered the registrar to keep records, beginning Feb. 1, showing the number of white and Negro registrants who are challenged.

In Washington, Asst. Atty. Gen. M. F. Ryan Jr., head of the civil rights division, said, "while the government does not seek the retention on the voting rolls of people who are not qualified under state law, the decision of the court makes it clear that the state may not apply one set of rules as to qualifications to one race which it does not apply to the other."

Man, Money Not Parted By Hoosegow

A local man carrying $690, but accused of non-support, caused local officials to ponder the problem today.

Robert Clark, 36, of 321 Long Alley, appeared in Circleville Municipal Court yesterday to face an accusation of non-support. He was bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury under $500 bond.

According to the court, Clark had more than $700 in his possession. He paid a previous intoxication fine to Municipal Court, but refused to post the $500 bond on the non-support charge. The intoxication fine was for an earlier violation here.

Failing to post bond, Clark was taken to the Pickaway County Jail to await grand jury action. The non-support count was filed by his wife, Wilma Clark.

Yesterday Mrs. Clark made application to the County Welfare Board for relief for herself and four children. She said she wanted Clark to post the bond and go to work, but that he refused. Welfare Board records show Clark left his family on Oct. 17, 1959.

Welfare officials looked into the matter, informing Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff that Clark should have at least $690. The sheriff, following the rule of allowing prisoners to keep only $1 while in jail, said the accused surrendered only $340 when admitted to the jail yesterday.

A quick search by Sheriff Radcliff led to the discovery of the other $350. The sheriff said the money was hidden in Clark's clothing. The sheriff and welfare officials huddled today for further action in the case.

Green Shuns 5th Term

Big 3 Resume Parley On Nuclear Test Ban

Teays Valley Bond Issue Back on Ballot

Voters of the Teays Valley School District will have another opportunity to approve or disapprove a $1,900,000 bond issue in the May 3 primary for the construction of a new consolidated high school.

This decision was made Saturday night in a special meeting of the Teays Valley Board. The issue to be voted will be identical as the one defeated in the Nov. 3, 1959 off-year general election.

The Board didn't make its decision until after holding a series of four meetings with residents of the entire district, conducting sessions at Walnut, Ashville and Scioto schools.

Residents were asked to make suggestions on the high school building's construction and how the building could be reduced in expense and still maintain an adequate educational institution.

AFTER STUDYING the results of the four meetings, the Teays Valley Board decided to place the same issue on the ballot for another go at passage.

The resolution declaring the necessity and request for submitting the issue to the voters was filed with the Pickaway County Board of Elections today by Board clerk, S. E. Beers.

It stated in part, "the bond issue is necessary for the acquisition of real estate, constructing a new fire-proof high school building and a p p u r t e n a n c e s and furnish equiping and landscaping the building and its site.

The estimated interest for sale of the bonds, if the issue is passed, was set at 4 1/2 per cent. The bond issue is for 20 years.

The millage rate, which must be set by County Auditor Mrs. Marvonne H. Rhoades, is expected to be slightly lower than the 3.44 mills necessary last November, due to increased real estate valuation.

Members of the Teays Valley Board are Harold Hines, Everett Beers, John Moss, James Moody and W. O. Dountz.

Castro Rejects U.S. Protest on Grab of Property

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime has rejected a U.S. protest against tactics used in seizing American property in Cuba and said it would speed up operation of its land reform program against both Cubans and foreigners.

Property owners were told to take their complaints to the Cuban courts.

U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal delivered a State Department note Monday complaining that lands and buildings of U.S. citizens in Cuba had been seized without court orders and frequently without written authorization.

The State Department said in many cases no inventories were made, no receipts given for the seized property and no indication given that payment would be made.

Acting Foreign Minister Marcelo Fernandez issued a statement Monday night which said the State Department "does not take into consideration the basic situation but rather relates a number of supposed deeds which are qualified as 'violations' of the agrarian reform law."

Fernandez said that while a formal reply would be made later, Bonsal had been told the "firm position of the revolutionary government in accelerating the work of agrarian reform, applying measures of expropriation and indemnification to (Cuban) nationals and foreigners equally, and referring all doubtful cases to (competent) Cuban courts."

The U.S. note was the third to Cuba on the subject in seven months. It was drawn up during conferences in Washington from which Bonsal returned on Sunday.

The note declared that Castro's seizure of American private property violated both Cuban and international law. But the summary released to the press made clear it did not protest the principle of land redistribution but complained about the manner in which it is being carried out. The U.S. government recognizes the right of foreign countries to expropriate lands and other property within foreign domains provided fair and speedy compensation is made.

Officials in Washington said the Castro government has made no payments for American-owned property seized so far except in the case of a few plantations producing fiber for twine. The agrarian reform law calls for payment with 20-year Cuban government bonds.

American property seized so far was estimated in Washington at five or six million dollars. U.S. investments in Cuba are estimated at about a billion dollars.

Tarleton Appeals Decision On Confiscated Auto

The village of Tarleton yesterday appealed Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer's decision in the confiscated automobile matter.

Tarleton filed an appeal with the 4th District Court of Appeals in the County Clerk of Court's office.

The village asks the court to overrule Judge Ammer's decision and place the car in the hands of Tarleton council for its disposition. The appeal was filed by Tarleton's attorney, Evan P. Ford, a Canal Winchester attorney.

New U.S. Policy Brings Urgency

Yanks, British, Reds Open Talks in Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain resume negotiations here today for a ban on nuclear weapon tests, spurred by new urgency following a U.S. threat to resume test explosions at any time.

The talks have been going on intermittently since Oct. 31, 1958. Except for a Soviet test series in early November 1958, none of the three powers has set off any test blast since the talks opened.

The voluntary U.S. moratorium on nuclear tests ended Dec. 31. President Eisenhower announced two days earlier the United States felt free to resume nuclear weapon testing at any time but would not do so without giving advance notice.

The talks suspended for a three-week Christmas recess on Dec. 18, after an East-West group of scientists reported almost complete failure to agree on new methods to police a ban on tests held underground.

The American scientists, headed by Dr. James B. Fisk, executive vice president of Bell Telephone Laboratories, submitted detailed scientific data to show that a technical control plan the scientists had agreed on previously no longer was adequate to detect underground tests.

The Soviet scientists, headed by Prof. Evgeniy Federov, ridiculed the American data and said it was deliberately distorted to impede the negotiations.

In their 14 months of negotiations, the American, British and Soviet delegations have drafted only the administrative framework for a worldwide organization to police a test ban. Most of the practical control procedure remains in dispute.

The collapse of the scientific discussions has left doubts whether a reasonably foolproof control system is even possible at the present stage of scientific knowledge.

Western scientists believe that a 100 per cent reliable system to detect underground nuclear blasts probably can never be achieved. The best they hoped for was agreement to permit an on-the-scene inspection of any suspicious earth tremor, and that this would create an adequate deterrent to a would-be violator.

The present Soviet attitude would, in effect, require proof of a violation prior to any such inspection. The West maintains that the shock waves of an underground nuclear test are so similar to those of thousands of earthquakes recorded every year that only an on-the-spot investigation can provide proof of a violation.

Ned Dresbach Named to Election Board

The Pickaway County Republican executive committee last night recommended Ned H. Dresbach to replace Tom A. Renick on the County Board of Elections.

Dresbach, 1006 S. Pickaway St., is executive committee chairman. The local Sinclair Refining Co. distributor also is secretary of the Circleville Pumpkin Show Society.

Renick, 413 E. Main St., declined to accept another term on the election board. He served three terms for a total of 10 years. Final confirmation of Dresbach is made by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, but is merely a formality.

Presently the election board salary per member is $20 per $1,000 county residents or approximately $580 a year.

THE SALARY boost awarded the position by the 103rd General Assembly went from $20 to $31 per every 1,000 county residents, effective Jan. 1, 1961.

This will mean an approximate increase, according to estimated statistics of the Ohio Department of Health, to $1,054 per year. The Department of Health estimates present county population of 34,000.

In other action, the executive committee elected Dr. Richard Heckert, 376 Marjorie Road, to its group. Dr. Heckert is manager of the local E. I. deNeours, DuPont & Co. mylar plant.

Head-Shaving Captain Sacked

Army Finger Wagged At Chillicothe GI

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The U.S. Army announced today it has relieved the captain who ordered two sergeants to shave the heads of two Korean prostitutes caught in the company barracks. The captain also was reprimanded.

The action was taken against Capt. John W. McEnery 34, of Cheyenne, Wyo., by the commanding general of the 7th Division.

One of the sergeants, Ora Currutte, 30, of 92 Cedarwood Dr., Chillicothe, Ohio, was admonished. He was not punished as strongly because he acted under orders, the Army added.

No disciplinary action was taken against Sgt. 1. C. Harry K. Saunders, 37, of Kansas City, Mo.

The Jan. 2 incident has irritated U.S.-South Korea relations.

The announcement said the Army investigation revealed that as a result of "many intrusions" into the company compound by prostitutes, McEnery "issued instructions that if further prostitutes were found inside the compound, the hair of their heads would be clipped before they were turned over to the Korean National Police for legal action."

The announcement said the two Korean women, Kim Ae Soon, 37, and Kim Chung Ja, 21, admitted entering the compound through a hole in the fence "and entered the barracks and solicited sexual intercourse for pay."

"One of the men solicited by the two women conducted them to the company orderly room," the Army said, adding that Currutte then sent for Saunders to help him.

The women's heads were shaved, the Army added, "under prior orders of the company commander, Capt. McEnery, and with his knowledge."

"Although the provocation was considered great, the U.S. Army does not condone the action by Capt. McEnery," the army added.

Air Chief Says U.S. Stronger than Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is much stronger than the Soviet Union in military power and may have a slight edge in war missiles, Gen. Thomas D. White says.

The Air Force chief of staff told a National Press Club audience Monday there may be no certain way of knowing which country is ahead in missile strength. But he added that the United States "may now have a slight edge in military missiles."

At another point he said the Strategic Air Command now has "the ability to destroy the war-making capacity of any aggressive nation, no matter how powerful, and to achieve military victory."

Wanted Man Said Glad To Surrender

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—"I've felt hunted all the time. I didn't want to even spit on the sidewalk."

That's Robert Garfield Brown Jr. speaking Monday night after FBI agents arrested him in a Salvation Army home where he worked.

Brown, 41, one of the FBI's ten most-wanted fugitives, surrendered peacefully.

Brown is charged with fleeing Maine to avoid prosecution in a holdup shooting in Old Orchard Beach, Maine, last July 9 that left a tourist paralyzed.

Brown, a native of Brookline, Mass., said he had drifted since last summer.

According to the court, Clark had more than $700 in his possession. He paid a previous infraction fine to Municipal Court, but refused to post the $500 bond on the non-support charge. The infraction fine was for an earlier violation here.

Failing to post bond, Clark was taken to the Pickaway County Jail to await grand jury action. The non-support count was filed by his wife, Wilma Clark.

Yesterday Mrs. Clark made application to the County Welfare Board for relief for herself and four children. She said she wanted Clark to post the bond and go to work, but that he refused. Welfare Board records show Clark left his family on Oct. 17, 1959.

Welfare officials looked into the matter, informing Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff that Clark should have at least $690. The sheriff, following the rule of allowing prisoners to keep only $1 while in jail, said the accused surrendered only $340 when admitted to the jail yesterday.

A quick search by Sheriff Radcliff led to the discovery of the other $350. The sheriff said the money was hidden in Clark's clothing.

The sheriff and welfare officials huddled today for further action in the case.

Green Shuns 5th Term

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), at 92 the oldest person ever to serve in Congress, will call it quits after four terms. He gave failing eyesight and hearing as his reason to forego a bid for re-election next November.

Teays Valley Bond Issue Back on Ballot

Voters of the Teays Valley School District will have another opportunity to approve or disapprove a $1,500,000 bond issue in the May 3 primary for the construction of a new consolidated high school.

This decision was made Saturday night in a special meeting of the Teays Valley Board. The issue to be voted will be identical as the one defeated in the Nov. 3, 1959 off-year general election.

The Board didn't make its decision until after holding a series of four meetings with residents of the entire district, conducting sessions at Walnut, Ashville and Scioto schools.

Residents were asked to make suggestions on the high school building's construction and how the building could be reduced in expense and still maintain an adequate educational institution.

AFTER STUDYING the results of the four meetings, the Teays Valley Board decided to place the same issue on the ballot for another go at passage.

The resolution declaring the necessity and request for submitting the issue to the voters was filed with the Pickaway County Board of Elections today by Board clerk, S. E. Beers.

It stated in part, "the bond issue is necessary for the acquisition of real estate, constructing a new fire-proof high school building and appurtenances and furnish equipping and landscaping the building and its site."

The estimated interest for sale of the bonds, if the issue is passed, was set at 4 1/2 per cent. The bond issue is for 20 years.

The millage rate, which must be set by County Auditor Mrs. Marvinne H. Rhoades, is expected to be slightly lower than the 3.44 mills necessary last November, due to increased real estate valuation.

Members of the Teays Valley Board are Harold Hines, Everett Beers, John Moss, James Moody and W. O. Dountz.

Castro Rejects U.S. Protest on Grab of Property

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime has rejected a U. S. protest against tactics used in seizing American property in Cuba and said it would speed up operation of its land reform program against both Cubans and foreigners.

Property owners were told to take their complaints to the Cuban courts.

The State Department said it had no immediate comment on the Cuban statement.

The U. S. note was the third to Cuba on the subject in seven months. It was drawn up during conferences in Washington from which Borsal returned on Sunday.

The note declared that Castro's seizure of American private property violated both Cuban and international law. But the summary released to the press made clear it did not protest the principle of land redistribution but complained about the manner in which it is being carried out. The U. S. government recognizes the right of foreign countries to expropriate lands and other property within foreign domains provided fair and speedy compensation is made.

Officials in Washington said the Castro government has made no payments for American-owned property seized so far except in the case of a few plantations producing fiber for twine. The agrarian reform law calls for payment with 20-year Cuban government bonds.

American property seized so far was estimated in Washington at five or six million dollars. U. S. investments in Cuba are estimated at about a billion dollars.

Tarlton Appeals Decision On Confiscated Auto

The village of Tarlton yesterday appealed Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer's decision in the confiscated automobile matter.

Tarlton filed an appeal with the 4th District Court of Appeals in the County Clerk of Court's office.

The village asks the court to overrule Judge Ammer's decision and place the car in the hands of Tarlton council for its disposition.

The appeal was filed by Tarlton's attorney, Evan P. Ford, a Canal Winchester attorney.

COURT OBSERVERS wonder on what basis Ford and Tarlton are appealing. They state no record was taken at the hearing in which Judge Ammer overruled a Tarlton motion to turn the car over to its village.

The automobile in question was owned by Leonard Posner, 22, New York, N. Y., who was recently placed on five years probation for the illegal possession of narcotics.

Posner and his partner, Lemuel Carter, 26, New York, N. Y., were apprehended in Tarlton's village square on July 12, 1959.

A day later, Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff found several packets of heroin, needles and syringes in the automobile while it was parked in the courthouse lot.

Both Posner and Carter were indicted by a County Grand Jury for the illegal possession of narcotics. Carter was convicted by a Common Pleas Court petit jury and sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus, for two to 15 years.

After Posner was placed on probation, Common Pleas Judge William Ammer ordered the automobile confiscated and its title placed in the name of the sheriff's Department.

TARLTON objected and asked the court to reconsider its order and transfer the car to the village.

Judge Ammer overruled Tarlton's motion and said the Commissioners had the right to sell the car.

A motion by County Commissioner Charles Morris to sell the car was defeated due to lack of a second by other Commissioners, Clyde E. Michel or Wayne G. Hines.

Ohio's February Draft Call Slated For Total of 375

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Selective headquarters today issued a February draft call for 375 men. The youngest registrant who may be inducted on this call must be at least 22 years of age on or before Feb. 1, 1960, unless he is a volunteer.

The call by counties includes: Clinton 2, Fayette 2, Highland 1, Greene 1, Warren 2, Pickaway 1, Madison 1, Ross 2, Hocking 1, Gallia 5, Athens 1, Fairfield 2, Perry 1, Vinton 1, Van Wert 1, Putnam none, Paulding 1, Allen 3, Mercer 1.

New U.S. Policy Brings Urgency

Yanks, British, Reds Open Talks in Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain resume negotiations here today for a ban on nuclear weapon tests, spurred by new urgency following a U. S. threat to resume test explosions at any time.

The talks have been going on intermittently since Oct. 31, 1958. Except for a Soviet test series in early November 1958, none of the three powers has set off any test blast since the talks opened.

The voluntary U. S. moratorium on nuclear tests ended Dec. 31. President Eisenhower announced two days earlier the United States felt free to resume nuclear weapon testing at any time but would not do so without giving advance notice.

The talks suspended for a three-week Christmas recess on Dec. 18, after an East-West group of scientists reported almost complete failure to agree on new methods to police a ban on tests held underground.

The American scientists, headed by Dr. James B. Fisk, executive vice president of Bell Telephone Laboratories, submitted detailed scientific data to show that a technical control plan the scientists had agreed on previously no longer was adequate to detect underground tests.

The Soviet scientists, headed by Prof. Evgeniy Federov, ridiculed the American data and said it was deliberately distorted to impede the negotiations.

In their 14 months of negotiations, the American, British and Soviet delegations have drafted only the administrative framework for a worldwide organization to police a test ban. Most of the practical control procedure remains in dispute.

The collapse of the scientific discussions has left doubts whether a reasonably foolproof control system is even possible at the present stage of scientific knowledge.

Western scientists believe that a 100 per cent reliable system to detect underground nuclear blasts probably can never be achieved. The best they hoped for was agreement to permit an on-the-scene inspection of any suspicious earth tremor, and that this would create an adequate deterrent to a would-be violator.

The present Soviet attitude would, in effect, require proof of a violation prior to any such inspection. The West maintains that the shock waves of an underground nuclear test are so similar to those of thousands of earthquakes recorded every year that only an on-the-spot investigation can provide proof of a violation.

Head-Shaving Captain Sacked

Army Finger Wagged At Chillicothe GI

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The U. S. Army announced today it has relieved the captain who ordered two sergeants to shave the heads of two Korean prostitutes caught in the company barracks. The captain also was reprimanded.

The action was taken against Capt. John W. McEnery 34, of Cheyenne, Wyo., by the commanding general of the 7th Division.

One of the sergeants, Ora Curtnutte, 30, of 92 Cedarwood Dr., Chillicothe, Ohio, was admonished. He was not punished as strongly because he acted under orders, the Army added.

No disciplinary action was taken against Sgt. L.C. Harry K. Saunders, 37, of Kansas City, Mo.

The Jan. 2 incident has irritated U. S.-South Korea relations.

The announcement said the Army investigation revealed that as a result of "many intrusions" into the company compound by prostitutes, McEnery "issued instructions that if further prostitutes were found inside the compound, the hair of their heads would be clipped before they were turned over to the Korean National Police for legal action."

The announcement said the two Korean women, Kim Ae Soon, 37, and Kim Chung Ja, 21, admitted entering the compound through a hole in the fence "and entered the barracks and solicited sexual intercourse for pay."

"One of the men solicited by the two women conducted them to the company orderly room," the Army said, adding that Curtnutte then sent for Saunders to help him.

The women's heads were shaved, the Army added, "under prior orders of the company commander, Capt. McEnery, and with his knowledge."

"Although the provocation was considered great, the U. S. Army does not condone the action by Capt. McEnery," the Army added.

Air Chief Says U.S. Stronger than Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is much stronger than the Soviet Union in military power and may have a slight edge in war missiles, Gen. Thomas D. White says.

The Air Force chief of staff told a National Press Club audience Monday there may be no certain way of knowing which country is ahead in missile strength. But he added that the United States "may now have a slight edge in military missiles."

At another point he said the Strategic Air Command now has "the ability to destroy the war-making capacity of any aggressive nation, no matter how powerful, and to achieve military victory."

Ned Dresbach Named to Election Board

The Pickaway County Republican executive committee last night recommended Ned H. Dresbach to replace Tom A. Renick on the County Board of Elections.

Dresbach, 1906 S. Pickaway St., is executive committee chairman. The local Sinclair Refining Co. distributor also is secretary of the Circleville Pumpkin Show Society.

Renick, 413 E. Main St., declined to accept another term on the election board. He served three terms for a total of 10 years. Final confirmation of Dresbach is made by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, but is merely a formality.

Presently the election board salary per member is $20 per $1,000 county residents or approximately $580 a year.

THE SALARY boost awarded the position by the 103rd General Assembly went from $20 to $31 per every 1,000 county residents, effective Jan. 1, 1961.

This will mean an approximate increase, according to estimated statistics of the Ohio Department of Health, to $1,054 per year. The Department of Health estimates present county population of 34,000.

In other action, the executive committee elected Dr. Richard Heckert, 376 Marjory Road, to its group. Dr. Heckert is manager of the local E. I. deNenours DuPont & Co. mylar plant.

Attractive Lures Being Offered To Encourage Thrift

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are saving less today. And many have veered away from the traditional pattern of savings. This is sparking growing rivalry among competing forms of savings institutions. The lure is to offer you more for the dollar you don't want to, or don't have to, spend.

Tight money is playing a dual role in this.

1. It makes fewer dollars available for borrowers at a time when the demand for loans is rising. Hence, the race among money-lenders to garner more dollars to hire out at increased interest rates.

2. Fatter returns make the saver more choosy. He can shop around for the highest yield on his money. He can switch from his old form of saving to another when the second pays him more.

Lures for savers have risen sharply of late.

The U.S. Treasury has offered 5 per cent on a new issue aimed at the individual. Its old marketable issues can be bought at discounted prices to yield about as much. And it has hiked the payments on U.S. Savings Bonds.

Many savings & loan associations have raised their dividend rates. The pattern varies across the country. But the range now is from 3½ per cent to 4½ per cent. Some associations and some mutual banks feature premiums, also—gadgets for new accounts.

Mutual savings banks are advertising increased payments, too, range varies, with some in New York as high as 3½ per cent. Many feature extra dividends, and offer more to those who leave their money in longer than two years.

To keep in the running, commercial banks have raised the interest they pay on deposits.

The slump in savings is shown in the Securities & Exchange Commission report that in the first nine months of 1959 individuals saved 12½ billion dollars, or 2 per cent less than in the same period of 1958, and 10 per cent less than in 1957. The 1959 drop contrasts with a steady rise in total personal incomes to be spent or saved.

The 1959 reports of the traditional recipients of the nation's savings show how saving habits have changed.

Mutual savings banks added 1¼ billion dollars to their deposits but this was a billion dollars less than in 1958. Commercial bank deposits gained three billion dollars last year, but that was only half of the increase in 1958.

Doing better, reserves of life insurance companies advanced by more than 4¼ billion dollars last year, up 200 million from the previous year. And savings & loan associations added 6¼ billion dollars, half a billion more than in 1958, but less than had been predicted at the start of the year.

In many cases the gains tended to be concentrated in the first part of 1958 with a slump following the issuance of the Treasury's magic fives.

Both Hurrahs, Headaches Recorded by New Seaway

CHICAGO (AP) — The first deep-water season of the St. Lawrence Seaway was one of hurrahs and headaches.

The huzzas greeted ocean ships that steamed into Great Lakes ports last spring. Those vessels were pennant-spangled symbols of the linking of North America's vast interior with the sea lanes of the world.

But the foreign freighters brought problems as well as cargoes. They encountered delays caused by canal bottlenecks, shortages of skilled longshoremen, inadequate loading and unloading equipment.

The Associated Press has made a survey of port cities, looking back to the 1959 season that ended Dec. 3 and ahead to the 1960 season that will open about April 1.

The main findings: Export and import volume in the ports rose to record levels. But tonnage through the seaway—the 185-mile stretch of canals and river between Montreal and Lake Ontario—fell short of expectations. The total was 20,103,767 tons. That is 20 per cent under advance estimates of 25 million but far above the 10 million or so tons in recent years.

There is not so much blithe talk about the future now that the historic opening year has passed. But some planners are moving along the line suggested by the old gambling challenge—"put your money where your mouth is"—and investing millions in port betterment.

Here, in brief, are reports from some ports:

Ocean cargo topped 200,000 tons in 1959 at both Milwaukee and Cleveland, tripling their 1958 totals.

Chicago's export-import business added up to 784,206 tons of general and bulk cargoes, exclusive of grain. That more than doubled the figure for the previous year. Grain exports shot up to 384,412 tons from a meager 18,384 tons.

Buffalo's tonnage soared to 108,267 from 12,650 the previous season. Toledo's direct overseas freight totaled 115,383 tons, a gain of 277 per cent.

Muskegon, Mich., with 45,000 tons of foreign freight doubled its 1958 business.

Some ports handled their first shipments from overseas. Erie, Pa., had 6,359 tons of export-import freight.

Increasing export and import volume added up to 8,500,000 tons in Montreal at the eastern end of the seaway. Foreign cargo totaled 251,000 tons in Hamilton, Ont., several times the 1958 handle, and more than double in Toronto in reaching a record 700,882 tons.

Calls at Great Lakes ports by vessels in overseas trade increased from 20 to almost 50 per cent. They ranged, in number, from 22 in Erie, Pa., and 51 at Bay City, Mich., to 522 at Chicago and 583 at Toronto.

The ships were larger, too, because seaway canals have been deepened from 14 feet to 27.

Eastern ports watched competition get off to a modest start along what has been termed "the new north coast."

New York and Boston reported it had little effect on them.

Philadelphia's general cargo volume held to 1958 levels but grain exports declined.

The Maryland Port Authority commented: "Baltimore has suffered mostly in grain and coal exports, along with the loss of some general cargo."

The upturn in seaway traffic didn't touch off a wild boom, but it did bring benefits. In Milwaukee, for example, it has been estimated the seaway brought more than 2½ million dollars in additional money into the city and created 200 new jobs, half of them on harbor installations and the others on docks.

The big bottleneck was at the Welland Canal, a link between Lakes Ontario and Erie that detours Niagara Falls. As many as 60 ships chafed and fretted at one time waiting for passage. Delays ranged up to 72 hours.

Improvements are under way, at a cost of $7,500,000, aimed at a 25 per cent expansion of the canal's current capacity of 28 vessels a day.

County Distributes $286,417 in Taxes

Pickaway County Auditor Mrs. Marvin H. Rhoades recently distributed $286,417 in personal property taxes and $17,567.73 in classified taxes.

A total of $269,018.87 was collected in 1959 tangible or personal property taxes and $13,526.67 was collected in intangible or classified taxes.

Classified taxes include levies on all interest bearing certificates such as stocks and bonds. The additional funds distributed in classified taxes came from a surplus in the intangible tax fund.

Included in the classified tax distribution was $32.25 to the state; $1.45 to unclaimed money; $15,800 to the public library;

A TOTAL OF $962.03 to the county general fund and $772 to the county municipalities.

Distributions from personal property taxes went to state Korean Conflict fund, $3,767.64; World War II fund, $2,546.54;

Sinking fund, $502.35; tuberculosis hospital, $3,139.70; general fund, $45,107.05; townships, $19,748.02; corporations, $18,459.11, and schools, $175,579.68.

A breakdown of classified, (in parenthesis), and personal property taxes distributed to corporations are: Circleville, $15,999.03 ($600); Harrisburg, $145; Williamsport, $1,004.68 ($50); Ashville, $795.93 ($50); South Bloomfield, $10.49 ($1); Darbyville, $0.98; New Holland, $608.78 ($50); Tarlton, $9.16 ($1); Commercial Point, $25.11 ($20), and Orient, $3.50.

Personal property tax distributions to townships were: Circleville, $975.94; Darby, $422.22; Deercreek, $1,263.07; Harrison, $401.10; Jackson, $372.21; Madison, $259.49;

MONROE, $439.70; Muhlenberg, $147.32; Perry, $1,168.97; Pickaway, $11,830.32; Saltcreek, $266.43; Scioto, $808.96; Walnut, $510.67; Washington, $492.53, and Wayne, $389.09.

Distribution to school districts of personal property taxes were: Circleville, $78,409.50, less advance of $45,000 for a balance of $33,409.50;

Westfall, $19,096.65 less $12,500 advance for a balance of $6,596.65; Logan Elm, $63,336.32 less an advance of $31,000 for a balance of $32,336.32;

Teays Valley, $12,421.27; Harrisburg, Franklin County, $34.67; Deerfield, Ross County, $286.39; Miami Trace, Fayette County, $395.88, and New Holland, $1,599.09.

Ike Sends 981 Nominations Up To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent to the Senate 981 nominations for various civilian government jobs and military assignments.

The nominations, first to go to Congress since it reconvened last week, include 779 selections for postmasterships.

Among the other nominations, all subject to Senate confirmation, are many persons given appointments while Congress was in recess.

The nominations include 155 for promotions in the armed services, and 47 for civilian jobs other than postmasters.

Among the recess appointments formally nominated were: Livingston T. Merchant to be undersecretary of state for political affairs; Foy D. Kohler to succeed Merchant as secretary of state for European affairs.

Thomas S. Gates Jr. to be secretary of defense; James H. Douglas to succeed Gates as deputy secretary of defense; Franklin B. Lincoln Jr. to be assistant secretary of defense; Dudley C. Sharp to succeed Douglas as secretary of the Air Force.

Ohio Cop-Slayer Is Denied Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Lee Lyons Jr., under death sentence in Ohio for the slaying of a Cleveland policeman, today was denied a Supreme Court review of his trial.

Lyons was convicted March 5, 1958 in the killing of the officer, Lt. Edward Lentz.

His appeal to the high tribunal asserted he did not have a fair trial because of "bias and prejudice" of the trial judge, his defense counsel "wilfully and knowingly neglected" to represent him properly in court, attorneys refused to present errors he contended occurred during the trial, and a confession was obtained by coercion and brutality.

The appeal declared Cleveland police "beat me with clubs and flash-lights and kicked me in the face until I was unrecognizable."

Here, in brief, are reports from some ports:

Ocean cargo topped 200,000 tons in 1959 at both Milwaukee and Cleveland, tripling their 1958 totals.

Chicago's export-import business added up to 784,206 tons of general and bulk cargoes, exclusive of grain. That more than doubled the figure for the previous year. Grain exports shot up to 384,412 tons from a meager 18,384 tons.

Buffalo's tonnage soared to 108,267 from 12,650 the previous season. Toledo's direct overseas freight totaled 115,383 tons, a gain of 277 per cent.

Muskegon, Mich., with 45,000 tons of foreign freight doubled its 1958 business.

Some ports handled their first shipments from overseas. Erie, Pa., had 6,359 tons of export-import freight.

Increasing export and import volume added up to 8,500,000 tons in Montreal at the eastern end of the seaway. Foreign cargo totaled 251,000 tons in Hamilton, Ont., several times the 1958 handle, and more than double in Toronto in reaching a record 700,882 tons.

Calls at Great Lakes ports by vessels from overseas trade increased from 20 to almost 50 per cent. They ranged, in number, from 22 in Erie, Pa., and 51 at Bay City, Mich., to 322 at Chicago and 583 at Toronto.

The ships were larger, too, because seaway canals have been deepened from 14 feet to 27.

Eastern ports watched competition get off to a modest start along what has been termed "the new north coast."

New York and Boston reported it had little effect on them.

Philadelphia's general cargo volume held to 1958 levels but grain exports declined.

The Maryland Port Authority commented: "Baltimore has suffered mostly in grain and coal exports, along with the loss of some general cargo."

The upturn in seaway traffic didn't touch off a wild boom, but it did bring benefits. In Milwaukee, for example, it has been estimated the seaway brought more than 2 1/2 million dollars in additional money into the city and created 200 new jobs, half of them on harbor installations and the others on docks.

The big bottleneck was at the Welland Canal, a link between Lakes Ontario and Erie that detours Niagara Falls. As many as 60 ships chafed and fretted at one time waiting for passage. Delays ranged up to 72 hours.

Improvements are under way, at a cost of $7,500,000, aimed at a 25 per cent expansion of the canal's current capacity of 28 vessels a day.

Ohio Cop-Slayer Is Denied Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Lee Lyons Jr., under death sentence in Ohio for the slaying of a Cleveland policeman, today was denied a Supreme Court review of his trial.

Lyons was convicted March 5, 1958 in the killing of the officer, Lt. Edward Lentz.

His appeal to the high tribunal asserted he did not have a fair trial because of "bias and prejudice" of the trial judge, his defense counsel "wilfully and knowingly neglected" to represent him properly in court, attorneys refused to present errors he contended occurred during the trial, and a confession was obtained by coercion and brutality.

The appeal declared Cleveland police "beat me with clubs and flash-lights and kicked me in the face until I was unrecognizable."

Ike Sends 981 Nominations Up To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent to the Senate 981 nominations for various civilian government jobs and military assignments.

The nominations, first to go to Congress since it reconvened last week, include 779 selections for postmasterships.

Among the other nominations, all subject to Senate confirmation, are many persons given appointments while Congress was in recess.

The nominations include 155 for promotions in the armed services, and 47 for civilian jobs other than postmasters.

Among the recess appointments formally nominated were: Livingston T. Merchant to be undersecretary of state for political affairs; Foy D. Kohler to succeed Merchant as secretary of state for European affairs.

Thomas S. Gates Jr. to be secretary of defense; James H. Douglas to succeed Gates as deputy secretary of defense; Franklin B. Lincoln Jr. to be assistant secretary of defense; Dudley C. Sharp to succeed Douglas as secretary of the Air Force.

A Way of Life in Jeopardy

(For Hal Boyle)
NEW YORK (AP) — These are indeed perilous times.

A whole way of life may be in jeopardy. A culture, an economy, a philosophy, an entire set of customs, habits and values may shortly be shattered. Why?

The Internal Revenue Bureau says that this year it will examine more closely than ever before deductions for business entertainment, travel and other expenses. This may be the beginning of the end of the age of the expense account. Consider what might happen if the government suddenly began to disallow many of the income tax deductions it now accepts.

The liquor industry would receive its worst jolt since Carry Nation picked up her hatchet and went party-poop. Credit cards, now such handy proof for the tax collector, might easily disappear and be replaced by that ancient, gauche, germ-ridden thing called cash. Remember cash?

At least a hundred famous restaurants around the country, where people come to be seen despite or because of the outrageous prices, nightmarish decor and mediocre food, might have to shut down and be replaced by supermarkets or pizza parlors.

In the big cities, the big black limousines rented by visiting business men would revert to their original function — funerals. Many private and corporate yachts, only yesterday the scene of lavish and deductible business entertainment, would begin rusting at their moorings. Private and corporate airplanes, whose fuel was the expense account, would be grounded.

Country club memberships would go begging for people willing to pay for their own. Headwaiters would find smaller tips in their palms and the age of the deductible grand gesture would end; Americans once more would return to the ways of their forefathers and start outdumfing each other for the check. It might even make waiters civil.

Once more Americans would acquire an old-fashioned respect for money because the money they will be spending will be their own, not Uncle Sam's.

There will be more moves cooking their own dinners and more men going on the wagon rather than break the habit of a lifetime and start buying their own. The theater would suffer, night clubs would be staggered and baseball fans would suddenly replace out of town buyers in the corporate boxes at the World Series.

And on Madison Avenue, desolation. The four-martini, three-hour lunch would disappear. Young men in gray flannels would dine on park benches — salami sandwiches out of hand-tooled Moroccan leather attache cases.

Commies Follow Blindly

John Gates was a Communist leader. In his autobiography, "The Story of an American Communist," he tells of his hope to be an engineer. He says: "Nothing came of my desire to study engineering. Although the GI Bill of Rights would have made this possible and I was still young enough to undertake it, the party had other ideas. Right now such an ambition was frowned upon as a weakening of revolutionary fiber, an example of the evil influence of Browderism—and I agreed."

It is amazing how Americans who would accept no other discipline were willing to submit to the authority of this alien party. Private wishes, hopes for a career, even marriages were controlled by the party and still are. Gates tells this of Gil Green, another leader:

"In the upheaval accompanying Browder's ouster, Thompson became the head of the important New York organization, comprising half the total national membership of the party. Here he replaced Gil Green, probably the most able of all the party leaders at the time, who relinquished his post because he felt personally guilty for past party policy as one of most prominent Browderites. Green now went back to Chicago, where he had been born and where he hoped to redeem himself."

What sense of responsibility drives a man into such abject mental and spiritual discipline? It is not fear. Those who left the Communist party, including its leader, Earl Browder, survived this act of rejection. Many who left the party prospered and hold important positions even in the business world. Some do not change their names but go right ahead as though they had never been part of the party of treason. But while in the party they submitted to an authority over their minds and supported concepts which they did not believe to be true.

One of these concepts that Gates describes was the design for establishing a separate Negro republic out of the territory of the United States. I prefer to quote rather than to paraphrase Gates:

"On the initiative of the Communist International in the 1928-30 period, American Communists had developed the theory which asserted that the Negro people in the plantation areas of the South constituted a distinct and oppressed nation; we demanded 'self-determination' for this Negro nation in the Black Belt, including the right of separation from the United States if the local population so desired."

"This was an arbitrary and mechanical transplanting of Stalin's teachings on the national question to the American scene, arising not from the aims of the Negro people in the South but from abstract theories in Moscow."

Most Communist leaders and

all Negroes opposed this silly proposal. However, it was the policy that Moscow advocated and the American Communist Party had to go along because it is a disciplined organization. I quote Gates:

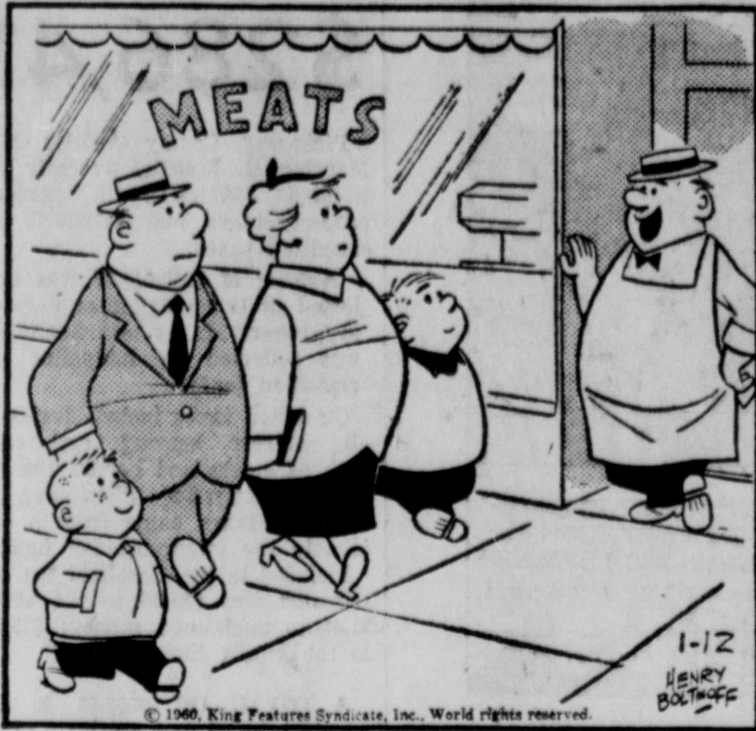

"The first prominent Communist to challenge this separate Negro nation theory had been Browder when he declared in 1944 that the Negro people had chosen the path of integration, not separatism. At that time, this became the new party policy. However, Browder also implied that the fight for integration had already been largely won, and would be finally achieved rather effortlessly and painlessly in the postwar period. This underestimation of the difficulties that lay ahead on the road to integration, was used later to justify a return to the original hare-brained theory."

Gates shows how difficult it is for a Communist to display his independence. In 1946 when the Communist Party reverted to the madness of making the Black Belt a separate nation, only two leaders stood up to oppose it. They were Gil Green and Doxey Wilkerson. Of himself Gates says:

"I agreed with Green and Wilkerson and said so privately. But I lacked the political courage to get up and say what I thought and to vote against the proposition. I was still new to the top leadership of the party, just fresh out of the army, and I lacked the necessary self-confidence. Moreover I was still plagued by the fear that I might be reverting to Browderite weakness."

As one reads this autobiography he is shocked by the naive acceptance of everything that was party authorized dogma as revealed, unquestioned and absolute truth. The disappointment at discovering false-hoods was almost pathological. But how can a Communist know what to believe?

LAFF-A-DAY

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A VISITOR TO the home of the late Oliver Herford was astonished to discover that the unpredictable poet and humorist had added a big and menacing brown bear to his menage.

"What on earth are you doing with that bear in the house?" he demanded.

Herford explained gently, "I came into a substantial sum of money recently and I was afraid I might spend it foolishly—so I bought a bear!"

One of the many dark horses now popping up in the political arena wanted a speech writer who could pepper his remarks with both wisdom and wit, and finally persuaded his own senator to lend him the writer chiefly responsible for landing said senator in Washington. Jim Spinning, Rochester savant, upon hearing of the deal, marveled, "Greater love hath no man than this, that he give up the ghost for a friend!"

Hemophiliac in Danger

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Today I had planned to write a column about hemophilia, a hereditary disease in which the blood fails to clot readily. Instead, I'm going to print an article by a hemophiliac about his own disease.

I think it is one of the most dramatic things I have read in a long time.

It is an oration written and delivered in 1955 by Ralph Zimmerman, then 22 and a senior at Wisconsin State College. It won first prize in a contest conducted by the Interstate Oratorical Association.

Here are excerpts from this prize oration:

"What does it really mean to be a hemophiliac? The first indication comes in early childhood, when a small scratch may bleed for hours. By the time the hemophiliac reaches school age, he begins to suffer from internal bleeding into muscles, joints, the stomach, the kidneys. This latter type is far more serious. Internal bleeding can be checked only by changes in the blood by means of transfusion or plasma injections."

"Childhood and early adolescence are the danger periods of a hemophiliac's life."

"Because medical science had not advanced far enough, and fresh blood not given often enough, my memories of childhood and adolescence are memories of pain and heartbreak."

"I remember missing school for weeks and months at a stretch—of being very proud because I attended school once for four whole weeks without missing a single day."

"I remember the three long years when I couldn't even walk because repeated hemorrhages had twisted my ankles and knees to pretzel-like forms."

"I remember being pulled to school in a wagon while other boys rode their bikes, and being pushed to my table. I remember sitting in the dark, empty classroom by myself during recess while the others went out into the sun to run and to play."

"And how well I remember the endless pounding, squeezing pain. 'Once a hemophiliac successfully passes through the dangerous period, his need for blood steadily decreases and his health improves. Today, except for periodic transfusions, my life is as normal as anyone else's, and my aims and ambitions are the same as anyone else's.'"

NOTE: When Ralph Zimmerman made this address in 1955, he felt that his bout with hemophilia was just about over. It wasn't.

On March 25, 1956, he died of hemophilia.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third time in 13 years the United States and the Soviet Union are trying to settle the Soviets' lend-lease debt for American help during the war. But don't read too much into an agreement, if there is one.

The two sides talked about it in 1947-48 and again in 1951-52, without success. They started talking again Monday, but this time under different circumstances.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev, when he was here last September, made a pitch for trade as part of better relations in a number of fields between the U.S.S.R. and the United States. He was told a lend-lease settlement might remove a major obstacle, and the new lend-lease talks are a result of his urging.

So there may be a settlement. If there is, trade between the two countries should increase a bit, but probably not on a large scale for a good while.

Agreement on trade doesn't necessarily mean agreement on other big issues such as disarmament or the Soviets' demand that the Western Allies get their troops out of Berlin. It has been past Soviet practice to haggle on each issue individually, as if none was related to any other.

During the war this country provided the Soviet Union with $10,800,000,000 worth of military and civilian equipment. After the war the United States wrote off the military equipment and concentrated on getting paid for the civilian goods still in Soviet hands.

The value of the civilian goods was pegged at $2,600,000,000 by this country. After the two previous talks the United States had scaled down its claim to 800 million dollars. The Soviets offered 300 million.

There are various legal restrictions on trade with the U.S.S.R. Some go back to before World War I, because the Communists have never paid on loans made to the Russian government before the Soviets took over.

The result is trade between the two countries is in tiny terms, compared with their economies. Last year the United States exported 3½ million dollars worth of goods to the Soviet Union and imported about 17½ million dollars worth.

When Khrushchev met President Eisenhower last fall at Camp David he was reportedly very upset over American restrictions on trading with the U.S.S.R. He was said to feel the Soviet Union was being treated like an outcast.

Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon said last September Khrushchev was told at Camp David that if the Soviet Union is reasonable about paying off on its lend-lease debt it may pave the way to easing American restrictions.

He said the Eisenhower administration may ask Congress—provided there is a settlement—to remove some legal prohibitions against dealing with the Soviet Union and to extend more favored tariff treatment.

But one of the main roadblocks to any big increase in trade with the U.S.S.R. soon—even if there's a settlement—is that goods that

By James Marlow

American purchasers want from abroad in substantial quantities, and which the Soviets have available, are already being supplied by free world countries.

There will be more wives cooking their own dinners and more men going on the wagon rather than break the habit of a lifetime and start buying their own. The theater would suffer, night clubs would be staggered and baseball fans would suddenly replace out of town buyers in the corporate boxes at the World Series.

And on Madison Avenue, desolation. The four-martini, three-hour lunch would disappear. Young men in gray flannels would dine out on park benches — salami sandwiches out of handtooled Moroccan leather attache cases.

Commies Follow Blindly

By George Sokolsky

John Gates was a Communist leader. In his autobiography, "The Story of an American Communist," he tells of his hope to be an engineer. He says: "Nothing came of my desire to study engineering. Although the GI Bill of Rights would have made this possible and I was still young enough to undertake it, the party had other ideas. Right now such an ambition was frowned upon as a weakening of revolutionary fiber, an example of the evil influence of Browderism—and I agreed."

It is amazing how Americans who would accept no other discipline were willing to submit to the authority of this alien party. Private wishes, hopes for a career, even marriages were controlled by the party and still are, Gates tells this of Gil Green, another leader:

"In the upheaval accompanying Browder's ouster, Thompson became the head of the important New York organization, comprising half the total national membership of the party. Here he replaced Gil Green, probably the most able of all the party leaders at the time, who relinquished his post because he felt personally guilty for past party policy as one of most prominent Browderites. Green now went back to Chicago, where he had been born and where he hoped to redeem himself."

What sense of responsibility drives a man into such abject mental and spiritual discipline? It is not fear. Those who left the Communist party, including its leader, Earl Browder, survived this act of rejection. Many who left the party prospered and hold important positions even in the business world. Some do not change their names but go right ahead as though they had never been part of the party of treason. But while in the party they submitted to an authority over their minds and supported concepts which they did not believe to be true.

One of these concepts that Gates describes was the design for establishing a separate Negro republic out of the territory of the United States. I prefer to quote rather than to paraphrase Gates:

"On the initiative of the Communist International in the 1920s, American Communists had developed the theory which asserted that the Negro people in the plantation areas of the South constituted a distinct and oppressed nation; we demanded 'self-determination' for this Negro nation in the Black Belt, including the right of separation from the United States if the local population so desired."

"This was an arbitrary and mechanical transplanting of Stalin's teachings on the national question to the American scene, arising not from the aims of the Negro people in the South but from abstract theories in Moscow."

Most Communist leaders and all Negroes opposed this silly proposal. However, it was the policy that Moscow advocated and the American Communist Party had to go along because it is a disciplined organization. I quote Gates:

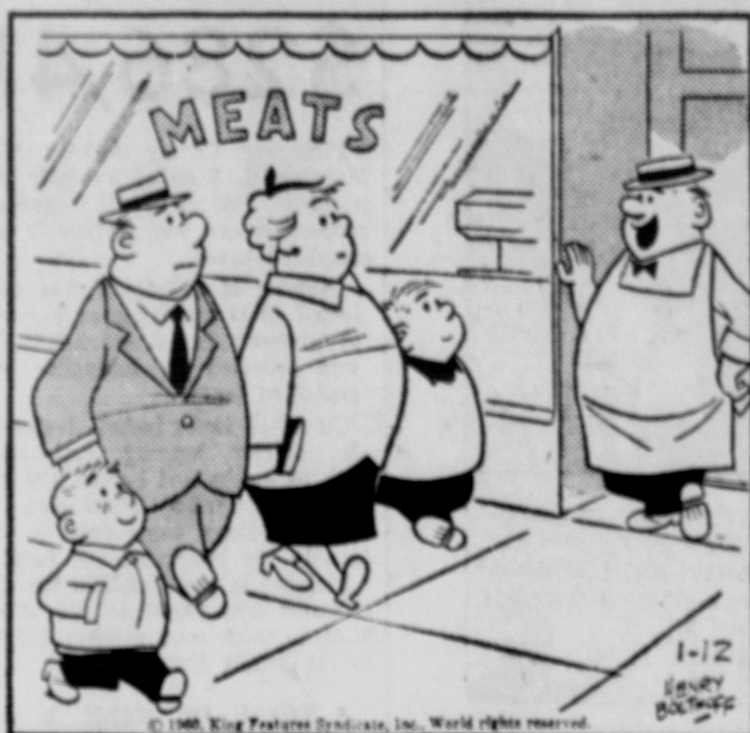

"The first prominent Communist to challenge this separate Negro nation theory had been Browder when he declared in 1944 that the Negro people had chosen the path of integration, not separatism. At that time, this became the new party policy. However, Browder also implied that the fight for integration had already been largely won, and would be finally achieved rather effortlessly and painlessly in the postwar period. This underestimation of the difficulties that lay ahead on the road to integration, was used later to justify a return to the original hare-brained theory."

Gates shows how difficult it is for a Communist to display his independence. In 1946 when the Communist Party reverted to the madness of making the Black Belt a separate nation, only two leaders stood up to oppose it. They were Gil Green and Doxey Wilkerson. Of himself Gates says:

"...I agreed with Green and Wilkerson and said so privately. But I lacked the political courage to get up and say what I thought and to vote against the proposition. I was still new to the top leadership of the party, just fresh out of the army, and I lacked the necessary self-confidence. Moreover I was still plagued by the fear that I might be reverting to Browderite weakness."

As one reads this autobiography he is shocked by the naive acceptance of everything that was party authorized dogma as revealed, unquestioned and absolute truth. The disappointment at discovering false-hoods was almost pathological. But how can a Communist know what to believe?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A VISITOR TO the home of the late Oliver Herford was astonished to discover that the unpredictable poet and humorist had added a big and menacing brown bear to his menagerie.

"What on earth are you doing with that bear in the house?" he demanded.

Herford explained gently, "I came into a substantial sum of money recently and I was afraid I might spend it foolishly—so I bought a bear!"

One of the many dark horses now popping up in the political arena wanted a speech writer who could pepper his remarks with both wisdom and wit, and finally persuaded his own senator to lend him the writer chiefly responsible for landing said senator in Washington. Jim Spinning, Rochester savant, upon hearing of the deal, marveled, "Greater love hath no man than this, that he give up the ghost for a friend!"

Hemophiliac in Danger

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Today I had planned to write a column about hemophilia, a hereditary disease in which the blood fails to clot readily. Instead, I'm going to print an article by a hemophiliac about his own disease.

I think it is one of the most dramatic things I have read in a long time.

It is an oration written and delivered in 1955 by Ralph Zimmerman, then 22 and a senior at Wisconsin State College. It won first prize in a contest conducted by the Interstate Oratorical Association.

Here are excerpts from this prize oration:

"What does it really mean to be a hemophiliac?

"The first indication comes in early childhood, when a small scratch may bleed for hours.

"By the time the hemophiliac reaches school age, he begins to suffer from internal bleeding into muscles, joints, the stomach, the kidneys. This latter type is far more serious. Internal bleeding can be checked only by changes in the blood by means of transfusion or plasma injections.

"Childhood and early adolescence are the danger periods of a hemophiliac's life.

"Because medical science had not advanced far enough, and fresh blood not given often enough, my memories of childhood and adolescence are memories of pain and heartbreak.

"I remember missing school for weeks and months at a stretch—of being very proud because I attended school once for four whole weeks without missing a single day.

"I remember the three long years when I couldn't even walk because repeated hemorrhages had twisted my ankles and knees to pretzel-like forms.

"I remember being pulled to school in a wagon while other boys rode their bikes, and being pushed to my table. I remember sitting in the dark, empty classroom by myself during recess while the others went out into the sun to run and to play.

"And how well I remember the endless pounding, squeezing pain. "Once a hemophiliac successfully passes through the dangerous period, his need for blood steadily decreases and his health improves.

"Today, except for periodic transfusions, my life is as normal as anyone else's, and my aims and ambitions are the same as anyone else's."

NOTE: When Ralph Zimmerman made this address in 1955, he felt that his bout with hemophilia was just about over. It wasn't.

On March 25, 1956, he died of hemophilia.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third time in 13 years the United States and the Soviet Union are trying to settle the Soviet's lend-lease debt for American help during the war. But don't read too much into an agreement, if there is one.

The two sides talked about it in 1947-48 and again in 1951-52, without success. They started talking again Monday, but this time under different circumstances.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev, when he was here last September, made a pitch for trade as part of better relations in a number of fields between the U.S.S.R. and the United States. He was told a lend-lease settlement might remove a major obstacle, and the new lend-lease talks are a result of his urging.

So there may be a settlement. If there is, trade between the two countries should increase a bit, but probably not on a large scale for a good while.

Agreement on trade doesn't necessarily mean agreement on other big issues such as disarmament or the Soviet's demand that the Western Allies get their troops out of Berlin. It has been past Soviet practice to haggle on each issue individually, as if none was related to any other.

During the war this country provided the Soviet Union with $10,800,000,000 worth of military and civilian equipment. After the war the United States wrote off the military equipment and concentrated on getting paid for the civilian goods still in Soviet hands.

The value of the civilian goods was pegged at $2,600,000,000 by this country. After the two previous talks the United States had scaled down its claim to 800 million dollars. The Soviets offered 300 million.

There are various legal restrictions on trade with the U.S.S.R. Some go back to before World War I, because the Communists have never paid on loans made to the Russian government before the Soviets took over.

The result is trade between the two countries is in tiny terms, compared with their economies. Last year the United States exported 3½ million dollars worth of goods to the Soviet Union and imported about 17½ million dollars worth.

When Khrushchev met President Eisenhower last fall at Camp David he was reportedly very upset over American restrictions on trading with the U.S.S.R. He was said to feel the Soviet Union was being treated like an outcast.

Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon said last September Khrushchev was told at Camp David that if the Soviet Union is reasonable about paying off on its lend-lease debt it may pave the way to easing American restrictions.

He said the Eisenhower administration may ask Congress—provided there is a settlement—to remove some legal prohibitions against dealing with the Soviet Union and to extend more favored tariff treatment.

But one of the main roadblocks to any big increase in trade with the U.S.S.R. soon—even if there's a settlement—is that goods that

American purchasers want from abroad in substantial quantities, and which the Soviets have available, are already being supplied by free world countries.

Deercreek Bridge Set For Opening

The Route 138 bridge over Deercreek will be open temporarily to traffic in the near future, it was reported today by Ed Wallace, Pickaway County State Representative.

The 265-foot single bridge span has been closed since Aug. 4, 1959, due to needed repairs. The $65,000 repair job was first delayed by the nation's steel strike and now by weather conditions.

Wallace reported he and a group of Deercreek Twp. residents visited with a Mr. Overland, Director of Bridges for Ohio, Wednesday.

Included in the delegation were Dan McConnell, Mrs. Alfred Johnson, Russell Timmons and Dan Noble.

THEY WERE TOLD the bridge planks would be re-spiked and gravel would be filled in on each end of the bridge. As a result, one-way traffic will be allowed to cross the bridge.

Wallace said yesterday he had spoken with a Mr. Johnson in the Bridges' Department and informed him that last week's promise of steel to complete temporary repairs did not arrive. Johnson was reported to have promised Wallace to phone the steel supplier to see what happened to the shipment.

Once the steel arrives, the bridge contractor, Twin Construction, Chillicothe, will finish temporary repairs.

Sand will be spread over the corrugated steel bottom to provide a roadbed. When the weather warms up in the spring, a final layer of blacktop will be applied and the bridge opened to normal traffic.

Oct. 1, 1959 was the original bridge deadline, but Wallace said it had been extended to June 1 due to the steel strike.

The committee that visited Overland was equipped with signed petitions requesting the bridge be opened for temporary traffic until weather becomes suitable for completion of the job. Estimate of temporary construction was set at $2,000.

litan Dayton, where researchers found:

Only four persons in 10 could name the name of a single area-wide leader.

Only 33 per cent of residents took an active part in the community affairs, defining that "activity" very modestly, and only two per cent considered interest and participation in community affairs something to be particularly proud of.

Nearly everyone questioned guessed that 23 to 38 cents of his property tax dollar is spent on schools—a healthy miss from the 60 to 80 cents that is actually spent.

These are among the facts listed in a 470-page report called "Metropolitan Challenge"—a portrait of the people, the governments, the problems and potentialities of an exploding metropolis.

Much of the report might apply to any of the other 59 metropolitan areas in the nation with populations of 250,000 to one million.

The result of a two-year, $260,000 study, metropolitan challenge deals mostly with problems. A later report will recommend solutions.

Dayton metropolitan area embraces Montgomery County, a 461 square mile area containing 5 cities, 14 villages, 13 townships and 540,794 people. The population has increased 98 per cent in the last 28 years.

Unfortunately the parallel growth of government has not been orderly. As the Dayton Journal Herald explains it, "we have patched on a room here, cut a passage there, barely keeping up with the expanding family."

There are 55 governmental spheres of influence in the county, says the report. But a citizen has no legal voice in the legislative affairs of a neighboring community even though its legislation can vitally affect him.

"Careful examination of the local governmental structure in Montgomery County shows conclusively that no unit is presently capable of meeting area-wide needs," the report says. The county government offers a basis for area government but "its structure is outmoded and clumsy and its powers restricted to unincorporated areas."

The fruit of this governmental maze has been these problems, outlined in the report:

1. Inadequate planning—There are 26 planning and zoning commissions in the county, but no coordination of their work. Inadequate planning is apparent in suburbs "where practically no land has been reserved for parks and playgrounds" and where sewer and water costs have more than tripled because residential subdivisions weren't located near existing systems.

A major deficiency is a lack of sites zoned for industrial locations. The scarcity has forced the price of industrial sites upward, discouraging industrial location and expansion. Competition for new industry is developing among communities within the county.

2. Traffic—Dayton area citizens regard this as their most serious problem. Despite the population surge, the number of people using public transportation has declined nearly 50 per cent since 1947. One reason: Buses average 7 miles per hour, private cars 12 to 14. Downtown Dayton also has a shortage of parking spaces.

3. Police and fire protection—There are 32 separate police agencies in the county, ranging from

U.S. Businessmen Wary about Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Many U.S. businessmen in Havana expressed doubt today that the United States is prepared to be firm enough with Fidel Castro's regime to save their threatened investments in Cuba from seizure.

Deep pessimism continued in American business circles as U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal returned from Washington, presumably with a new U.S. policy toward the Castro regime.

Bonsal, arriving Sunday night after a month in Washington, declined to say whether he would relay a police statement to Cubans. But he expressed hope for an early meeting with Cuba's acting foreign minister, Marcello Fernandez.

a 337-man force in Dayton to a single part-time policeman in several of the villages. Communications systems are operated by 14 police units, requiring "separate and more costly purchases and maintenance of equipment." Of 22 fire fighting units in the county, only those in Dayton and Oakwood are manned by full-time firemen.

4. Urban renewal — blighted areas embrace nearly six square miles, equal in size to more than one-sixth of the city of Dayton. Building codes are adequate, but enforcement is difficult. Governments do little to encourage conservation.

5. Education—Schools have been better able to keep up with demand for new facilities than other governments, but still trail needs. Public school enrollment has jumped 41 per cent in five years. County taxpayers pay 17 different prices for education and get 17 different brands.

While specific solutions to these problems are to be offered in the subsequent report, some general suggestions were made in metropolitan challenge. Here are a couple:

"The very interrelatedness of the area demands that they (the local planning and zoning units) work in close harmony."

And also, "from an engineering standpoint the solution to the traffic problem is to induce more people to use mass transit facilities than drive their own automobiles."

Bender Flaunts Ohio's GOP, Will Seek Delegate Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. George Bender said Monday he will run for election as an Ohio delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Bender told a reporter after being advised Ohio organization Republicans had rejected his request that he be put on the party ticket as delegate at large.

Just resigned as anti-rackets chairman of the Teamsters Union, Bender said:

"I'm going to give the people of Ohio a chance to make a choice.

"They shouldn't have to vote for a hand-picked slate picked by two or three financial interests or by people who appoint themselves.

"I'm not going to permit the Republicans to prove what Democrats are saying: That we're the party of special privilege."

Asked who his candidates for president and vice president would be—a technical formality required of all delegates running in Ohio—Bender said he had not decided yet.

Actually, Bender's real choice for president is Richard M. Nixon. However, he can't run pledged to Nixon since the regular Ohio GOP organization is backing the vice president.

Talking with the reporter, Bender said he knows why he was turned down by the party organization: Because he accepted a job as anti-racket chairman for Teamster President James R. Hoffa. The Senate Rackets Committee denounced this assignment as a whitewash for Hoffa's scandal.

Hoffa Condemns Senator Kennedy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, has accused Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) of ignoring labor in his bid for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

In an address before 1,000 members of the Buffalo Joint Council of Teamsters Sunday night, Hoffa called Kennedy a "fraud on the American people."

At a press conference earlier, Hoffa said the Massachusetts senator "has sacrificed the American labor movement in the hopes of getting some help in Los Angeles from the Southern bloc at the presidential convention."

He referred to Kennedy's part in amending the Landrum-Griffin labor bill.

HAVANA (AP) — Many U.S. businessmen in Havana expressed doubt today that the United States is prepared to be firm enough with Fidel Castro's regime to save their threatened investments in Cuba from seizure.

Deep pessimism continued in American business circles as U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal returned from Washington, presumably with a new U.S. policy toward the Castro regime.

Bonsal, arriving Sunday night after a month in Washington, declined to say whether he would relay a police statement to Cubans. But he expressed hope for an early meeting with Cuba's acting foreign minister, Marcello Fernandez.

a 337-man force in Dayton to a single part-time policeman in several of the villages. Communications systems are operated by 14 police units, requiring "separate and more costly purchases and maintenance of equipment." Of 22 fire fighting units in the county, only those in Dayton and Oakwood are manned by full-time firemen.

4. Urban renewal — blighted areas embrace nearly six square miles, equal in size to more than one-sixth of the city of Dayton. Building codes are adequate, but enforcement is difficult. Governments do little to encourage conservation.

5. Education—Schools have been better able to keep up with demand for new facilities than other governments, but still trail needs. Public school enrollment has jumped 41 per cent in five years. County taxpayers pay 17 different prices for education and get 17 different brands.

While specific solutions to these problems are to be offered in the subsequent report, some general suggestions were made in metropolitan challenge. Here are a couple:

"The very interrelatedness of the area demands that they (the local planning and zoning units) work in close harmony."

And also, "from an engineering standpoint the solution to the traffic problem is to induce more people to use mass transit facilities than drive their own automobiles."

Bender Flaunts Ohio's GOP, Will Seek Delegate Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. George Bender said Monday he will run for election as an Ohio delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Bender told a reporter after being advised Ohio organization Republicans had rejected his request that he be put on the party ticket as delegate at large.

Just resigned as anti-rackets chairman of the Teamsters Union, Bender said:

"I'm going to give the people of Ohio a chance to make a choice.

"They shouldn't have to vote for a hand-picked slate picked by two or three financial interests or by people who appoint themselves.

"I'm not going to permit the Republicans to prove what Democrats are saying: That we're the party of special privilege."

Asked who his candidates for president and vice president would be—a technical formality required of all delegates running in Ohio—Bender said he had not decided yet.

Actually, Bender's real choice for president is Richard M. Nixon. However, he can't run pledged to Nixon since the regular Ohio GOP organization is backing the vice president.

Talking with the reporter, Bender said he knows why he was turned down by the party organization: Because he accepted a job as anti-racket chairman for Teamster President James R. Hoffa. The Senate Rackets Committee denounced this assignment as a whitewash for Hoffa's scandal.

Hoffa Condemns Senator Kennedy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, has accused Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) of ignoring labor in his bid for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

In an address before 1,000 members of the Buffalo Joint Council of Teamsters Sunday night, Hoffa called Kennedy a "fraud on the American people."

At a press conference earlier, Hoffa said the Massachusetts senator "has sacrificed the American labor movement in the hopes of getting some help in Los Angeles from the Southern bloc at the presidential convention."

He referred to Kennedy's part in amending the Landrum-Griffin labor bill.

Miss Joan List, Jim Mace Wed in Trinity Ceremony

MRS. JIM D. MACE

Miss Joan Lee List became the bride of Mr. Jim D. Mace at an afternoon wedding held Saturday in the Trinity Lutheran Church with the Rev. Carl G. Zehner officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis List, Route 1, Williamsport and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mace, Route 3, Circleville.

The church was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli, white snap dragons and flocked branches of palms linked together with white satin roping.

Mrs. Karl Herrmann was organist for the wedding and Mr. Thomas Dumm, Columbus was the violinist.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She wore for her wedding, a gown of pure silk organza over net and taffeta. The basque bodice was topped with a deep scooped neckline, edged in dainty motifs of imported Chantilly lace dotted with iridescent sequins and pearls. The tufted sleeves tapered to traditional points over her hands. The bodice of her gown was fastened with tiny self covered buttons. The very bouffant skirt worn over a Dior hoop featured floating panels which extended to the floor in a graceful chapel train.

The bride's fingertip veil of bridal illusion, was caught to a queen's crown of lace edged with iridescents and seed pearls.

Her bouquet, was of gardenias and polished ivy leaves tied with love knots of red ribbon.

The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Channing Hag, Worthington, was the bride's half-sister. Her gown was of scarlet satin peau styled in princess fashion with a scoop neckline. The dress was adorned with velvet back-bow, long streamers and puff sleeves. She wore a matching red velvet box bandeaux with circular face veil.

The bouquet that Mrs. Haag carried was of white gardenias and polished ivy leaves.

Mr. Franklin Mace, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were: Mr. Benny List, Mr. Jerry Kalb, Mr. Cecil Gallo-way and Mr. Walter Bumgarner Jr.

The bride's mother was attired in a bronze gown of pure silk with black accessories.

Mrs. Mace wore navy blue for her son's wedding with matching accessories and her corsage was also of white gardenias.

The reception was held at the Lutheran parish house and the table was decorated with white gladioli, red carnations and a five tiered wedding cake.

Hostesses for the reception were the Misses Judy Hinton, Carol Sue Maughmer and Betty Eitel.

For her going away dress the new Mrs. Mace wore a brown wool jersey with carnal and white accessories.

The couple will reside at 320 Cedar Heights Road.

The bride is staff writer for the Circleville Herald. She is a graduate of Jackson Twp. High School. Mr. Mace is also a Jackson Twp. graduate and is associated in horse racing.

Out of town guests were from Dayton, Columbus, Mt. Sterling, New Knoxville, Sidney, Washington C. H., Kingston, Groveport and Marion.

First Methodist WSCS Holds Dessert-Meeting

Twenty-four members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service were present for a dessert - meeting at the First Methodist Church Wednesday.

An invitation was read from the First EUB WWSW members to an Inter-Church Racial program to be held in their social rooms at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. George Lawson was costumed in African garments when she told the story of Kueta Shauba.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Bess Wilson.

Mrs. Roliff Wolford was in charge of the program in which each of the Ten Commandments was discussed. In the discussion it was brought out that the Commandments apply in the life we lead today.

Since families often face great difficulties in these times the panel moderator emphasized the church as a starting point for working and praying together.

The meeting closed with the Affirmation of Faith.

Tarlton Methodist WSCS Meets

The WSCS of the Tarlton Methodist Church held the January meeting in the social room of the church on Wednesday afternoon.

The call to worship was given by Mrs. Rancee Poling.

For the meditation, Mrs. Earl Bowser spoke on "The Golden Cord of Service".

Mrs. Richard Ballard led in prayer.

Mrs. Joe Jenkins and Mrs. Carl Fry discussed the work of Dr. George Harley, a missionary to Liberia.

Mrs. W. E. Defenbaugh told of the work the Methodist Church is doing in Belgian Congo and southern Rhodesia. She also showed Christmas cards received from various countries and from people of different religions.

The program consisted of a song by Mrs. Nelson Jones, readings by Miss Ethel Reed and Mrs. Walter Hunt. Mrs. Bowser gave a New Year's reading with the Old Year portrayed by Mrs. Poling and the New Year by Lois Bowser. New Year's contests were conducted by Mrs. Jenkins.

Mrs. Delbert Ash and Mrs. Forrest Pierce were welcomed as new members.

Refreshments were served to 20 members and 25 visitors by the hostesses, Mrs. Poling, Mrs. Alice Reichelderfer, Mrs. Bowser and Miss Lois Bowser.

The next meeting will be Feb. 3, with Mrs. Al McHorter, Mrs. Albert Spangler and Mrs. Jenkins as hostesses.

Circleville Garden Club Hears State Activity Report

The Circleville Garden Club met at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Donald H. Watt, 540 N. Court St.

The business session was conducted by the president, Miss Jean Overly.

Mrs. James Swayler, secretary, thanked the club for gift, as she will be moving to Delaware in the near future.

Mrs. Channing Vlerebome, treasurer, presented the financial report for the past six months.

From the December issue of "The Garden Path", official publication of The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Watt gave a general review.

The State Association has over 800 clubs with over 22,000 members; 84 junior clubs, with 1,158 members; 622 year books were scored, the Circleville G.C. received honorable mention in District 9; 108 clubs or groups made entries for flower show awards, 22 counties entered their County Fair flower shows; there are 25 new judges and 35 re-certified, totaling 60 state accredited flower show judges; $1,115 was spent on the Johnny Appleseed Highway, a State project; there are 48 complete sets of Kodachrome slides available to each club.

A total of $12,300 has been contributed to the Victor H. Reis Fellowship Fund; a new exhibitor and judges' handbook has been completed; any member or club may purchase books through the Garden Path office, editor Mrs. Edward R. Ray, Lancaster, at a discount; Plans are ready for the annual Nature Camp, Nature Tours and

Nature Conservation programs; OAGC provided four "Little Gardens" at the State Fair; there is active State-wide interest to preserve the Glen Helen Tract, at Yellow Springs; the State membership has been interested in the National Flower Vote; The association's general theme is "Knowing, growing, showing and sharing" with other members of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Harry C. Kern, program chairman, narrated the 55 Kodachrome slides - "The Best Slides in 1958 State Contest".

A dry material workshop is slated for February with Mrs. Watt as the instructor.

Exhibits - Class I, Now Its Winter; Class II, Figurines for graceful Design, were viewed.

Mrs. Keith Wagner, formerly Regional Director of District 12, Cadiz, was welcomed as a new member.

To close the meeting a surprise kitchen shower was given for the president. The numerous gifts were placed under a white umbrella decorated with lily-of-the-valley on white satin ribbons.

Dessert course was served by the committee, Mrs. Kern, chairman.

The February 4 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. C. McClure, 966 S. Pickaway St. Each member is requested to bring seed catalogs and to be familiar with the new material in each.

Exhibit class - "Frontier Days" - dry material with an iron accessory. This will begin the club's theme for Circleville's 1960 Sesqui-centennial.

Study Characteristics Of Good Drapery Material

By KOLEEN EWING
Associate County Agent

This is the second in a series of articles to inform you of fiber characteristics of fabrics used in draperies.

We want draperies which will not fade from sunlight. Resistances to sunlight is excellent in solution dyed acetate, solution dyed rayon, dacron and fiberglass.

It is good in nylon with bright yarns but poor for semi-dull nylon yarns. Sun resistance is average in arnel, regular acetate and regular rayon. It is only fair in cotton and fortisan and it is poor in dyneel.

Another characteristic we want in draperies is resistance to abrasion. Dacron draperies and nylon draperies are excellent in resistance to abrasion, while cotton and dyneel have good resistance. Those that are only fair are: acetate, arnel, fiberglass, fortisan and rayon.

Because moisture settles on windows, draperies are likely to get a little damp. Therefore, we need fabric which is resistant to mildew. Arnel is highly resistant and acetate has good resistance while cotton is poor in resistance unless processed. Dacron, dyneel, fiberglass, and nylon are not attacked by mildew.

Heat affects the durability of draperies. Those fibers which have excellent durability in heat are:

arnel, cotton, fiberglass, fortisan and rayon. Dacron and nylon are good. Acetate is only fair while dyneel is poor.

Fiberglass is the only fiber that is fire proof.

The next and last article in this series will discuss durability, crease retention, wrinkle resistance, dimensional stability and dye ability of fibers.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Use Fittin' Words, Gal!

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of a filthy-minded old goat who won't leave you alone? I work in an office and this old lecher is a friend of my boss. He will come in when he knows I am alone and make all sorts of insulting suggestions which are absolutely revolting. He pretends to be kidding, but I know he means it.

When he passes me on the street he squeezes me and very loudly reminds me that his "offer still goes".

I would slap his face but I am afraid it might cost me my job. Don't tell me to quit because jobs are scarce and I have to eat. How do other respectable women handle this problem?

SIGN THIS "M" DEAR "M": A stinging remark is often far more effective than a slap in the face. Tell this kidding-on-the-square character that you are much too busy to bother with him in the office, and much too choosy to bother with him elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that mother whose heart was breaking because she had a son in prison to quit feeling sorry for herself. MY HUSBAND was in prison and he came out a much better man than he was when he went in. I carried our 3-week-old baby 400 miles to visit him for only a few hours, and I did that once a month, every visiting period allowed. I wrote him as often as they would let him get mail and told him I was waiting faithfully for him.

Now that he's home he has worked steady, is saving his money and hasn't even had a beer. He won't answer the phone if one of the "old crowd" calls him. He appreciates me more than he ever did, and he appreciates his freedom, too. And believe me, he is going to keep it.

EX-CON'S WIFE DEAR ABBY: This is for that mother who thought that death would be easier to bear than the shame of having a loved one in prison. She talks like a fool. Last July my eldest son passed away. Three weeks later my 16-year-old son was sent to a prison camp in Raleigh, N. C. He is learning his lesson and getting along fine. He has his whole life before him when he comes home. I hope this letter makes people who have a loved one serving time realize that shame passes with time, but grief stays with you forever. Hold your head up, Mother. Your son is coming home some day.

MRS. D. Mc.

DEAR ABBY: I had a baby out of wedlock. I had to put my maiden name on the baby's birth certificate because I had no husband at the time. The baby's father married me one year later. I hear that it is possible to change the name on the birth certificate so it won't look so bad. If this is true, how do we do it and how much will it cost?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Take your marriage license to the State Board of Health. A new birth certificate can be issued using your husband's last name. It will cost about one dollar.

Do you have a problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. James Swayler, secretary, thanked the club for gift, as she will be moving to Delaware in the near future.

Mrs. Channing Vlerobome, treasurer, presented the financial report for the past six months.

From the December issue of "The Garden Path", official publication of The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Watt gave a general review.

The State Association has over 800 clubs with over 22,000 members; 84 junior clubs, with 1,158 members; 622 year books were scored, the Circleville G.C. received honorable mention in District 9; 108 clubs or groups made entries for flower show awards, 22 counties entered their County Fair flower shows; there are 25 new judges and 35 re-certified, totaling 60 state accredited flower show judges; $1,115 was spent on the Johnny Appleseed Highway, a State project; there are 48 complete sets of Kodachrome slides available to each club.

A total of $12,300 has been contributed to the Victor H. Reis Fellowship Fund; a new exhibitor and judges' handbook has been completed; any member or club may purchase books through the Garden Path office, editor Mrs. Edward R. Ray, Lancaster, at a discount; Plans are ready for the annual Nature Camp, Nature Tours and

Nature Conservation programs; OAGC provided four "Little Gardens" at the State Fair; there is active State-wide interest to preserve the Glen Helen Tract, at Yellow Springs; the State membership has been interested in the National Flower Vote; The association's general theme is "Knowing, growing, showing and sharing" with other members of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Harry C. Kern, program chairman, narrated the 35 Kodachrome slides — "The Best Slides in 1958 State Contest".

A dry material workshop is slated for February with Mrs. Watt as the instructor.

Exhibits — Class I, Now Its Winter; Class II, Figurines for graceful Design, were viewed.

Mrs. Keith Wagner, formerly Regional Director of District 12, Cadiz, was welcomed as a new member.

To close the meeting a surprise kitchen shower was given for the president. The numerous gifts were placed under a white umbrella decorated with lily-of-the-valley on white satin ribbons.

Dessert course was served by the committee, Mrs. Kern, chairman.

The February 4 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. C. McClure, 966 S. Pickaway St. Each member is requested to bring seed catalogs and to be familiar with the new material in each.

Exhibit class — "Frontier Days" — dry material with an iron accessory. This will begin the club's theme for Circleville's 1960 Sesqui-centennial.

Study Characteristics Of Good Drapery Material

By KOLEEN EWING
Associate County Agent

This is the second in a series of articles to inform you of fiber characteristics of fabrics used in draperies.

We want draperies which will not fade from sunlight. Resistances to sunlight is excellent in solution dyed acetate, solution dyed rayon, dacron and fiberglass.

It is good in nylon with bright yarns but poor for semi-dull nylon yarns. Sun resistance is average in arnel, regular acetate and regular rayon. It is only fair in cotton and fortisan and it is poor in dyneel.

Another characteristic we want in draperies is resistance to abrasion. Dacron draperies and nylon draperies are excellent in resistance to abrasion, while cotton and dyneel have good resistance. Those that are only fair are: acetate, arnel, fiberglass, fortisan and rayon.

Because moisture settles on windows, draperies are likely to get a little damp. Therefore, we need fabric which is resistant to mildew. Arnel is highly resistant and acetate has good resistance while cotton is poor in resistance unless processed. Dacron, dyneel, fiberglass, and nylon are not attacked by mildew.

Heat affects the durability of draperies. Those fibers which have excellent durability in heat are:

arnel, cotton, fiberglass, fortisan and rayon. Dacron and nylon are good. Acetate is only fair while dyneel is poor.

Fiberglass is the only fiber that is fire proof.

The next and last article in this series will discuss durability, crease retention, wrinkle resistance, dimensional stability and dye ability of fibers.

You can substitute red wine for red wine vinegar when you are cooking shredded red cabbage with apples and onion. Season with salt, pepper and brown sugar. Good with frankfurters!

Next time you cook squash (either the summer or winter variety) add a dash of nutmeg along with butter, salt and pepper.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Use Fightin' Words, Gal!

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of a filthy-minded old goat who won't leave you alone? I work in an office and this old lecher is a friend of my boss. He will come in when he knows I am alone and make all sorts of insulting suggestions which are absolutely revolting. He pretends to be kidding, but I know he means it.

When he passes me on the street he squeezes me and very loudly reminds me that his "offer still goes".

I would slap his face but I am afraid it might cost me my job. Don't tell me to quit because jobs are scarce and I have to eat. How do other respectable women handle this problem?

SIGN THIS "M"
DEAR "M": A stinging remark is often far more effective than a slap in the face. Tell this kidding-on-the-square character that you are much too busy to bother with him in the office, and much too choosy to bother with him elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that mother whose heart was breaking because she had a son in prison to quit feeling sorry for herself. MY HUSBAND was in prison and he came out a much better man than he was when he went in. I carried our 3-week-old baby 400 miles to visit him for only a few hours, and I did that once a month, every visiting period allowed. I wrote him as often as they would let him get mail and told him I was waiting faithfully for him.

Now that he's home he has worked steady, is saving his money and hasn't even had a beer. He won't answer the phone if one of the "old crowd" calls him. He appreciates me more than he ever did, and he appreciates his freedom, too. And believe me, he is going to keep it.

EX-CON'S WIFE
DEAR ABBY: This is for that mother who thought that death would be easier to bear than the shame of having a loved one in prison. She talks like a fool. Last July my eldest son passed away. Three weeks later my 16-year-old son was sent to a prison camp in Raleigh, N. C. He is learning his lesson and getting along fine. He has his whole life before him when he comes home. I hope this letter makes people who have a loved one serving time realize that shame passes with time, but grief stays with you forever. Hold your head up, Mother. Your son is coming home some day.

MRS. D. Mc.

DEAR ABBY: I had a baby out of wedlock. I had to put my maiden name on the baby's birth certificate because I had no husband at the time. The baby's father married me one year later. I heard that it is possible to change the name on the birth certificate so it won't look so bad. If this is true, how do we do it and how much will it cost?

A MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Take your marriage license to the State Board of Health. A new birth certificate can be issued using your husband's last name. It will cost about one dollar.

Do you have a problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kansas State, Kentucky Show Old-Time Fire

After Poor Starts, Both Teams Riding Hot Winning Streaks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Basketball perennials Kentucky and Kansas State, put out to pasture by the experts a couple weeks ago, are perking up these days like the old fire horse when he hears the alarm.

Kansas State, the nation's top-ranking team a year ago, was put away after losing four of its first five this season. Now the Cats have taken seven of their last eight, five in a row, and hold their accustomed first-place spot in the Big Eight Conference after whipping Oklahoma State at Stillwater, 54-49 Monday night.

As for Baron Adolph Rupp's Kentuckians, they dropped three of their first seven, then were spilled by Georgia Tech in their Southeastern Conference opener Jan. 2. They've come back to win three SEC games in a row for a 9-4 over-all mark, topping the return to usual Kentucky form in a 68-42 romp Monday night that knocked Tulane out of first place.

West Virginia, the nation's third-ranking team, reeled off its 56th consecutive Southern Conference victory and its 39th straight home court triumph 94-74 over William and Mary; LaSalle, one of the four major unbeaten teams, won its ninth—63-58 over Morehead (Ky.). Texas whipped Arkansas 72-66 to grab a half-game lead in the Southwest Conference, and victories by Illinois and Iowa further scrambled the Big Ten Conference standings in other top Monday games.

In other SEC action, Dalen Showalter's 23 points led Tennessee to a 103-79 rout of LSU. Bobby Shiver's 30 points featured Florida's 88-76 victory over Alabama, and Vanderbilt topped Mississippi State 79-72.

Illinois (2-1) dealt Purdue (2-1) its first Big Ten loss 81-75 at Lafayette, Ind., despite a 43-point performance by the Boilermakers' 6-6 1/2 soph, Terry Dischinger. When Iowa (3-1) spilled Michigan State (2-1) 92-79, it left the conference lead to fifth-ranked Ohio State (3-0), which set a scoring record in a 109-38 romp over Delaware. Ohio State did it without ace sophomore Jerry Lucas, out with a bad ankle.

Other Big Ten games saw Indiana win its first conference game in four tries 77-72 over Michigan behind Bob Wilkinson's 23 points, and Northwestern (2-1) hand Wisconsin its fourth straight league defeat, 77-69 as all five Wildcat starters hit double figures.

In other conference activity, Colorado downed Kansas 65-61 and Missouri snapped a five-game losing string 69-61 over Nebraska in the Big Eight; VMI crushed Davidson 70-38 and The Citadel dropped Furman 59-55 in the Southern Conference; and Eastern Kentucky held its Ohio Valley conference lead with an 84-69 decision over Murray (Ky.).

Phillies, Cubs Engineer Swap

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, continuing their "new faces for 1960" rebuilding campaign, have acquired infielder Al Dark and two other players from the Chicago Cubs in exchange for center fielder Richie Ashburn.

Both Ashburn, twice National League batting champion, and Dark, twice All-Star shortstop, had the worst seasons of their long major league careers in 1959. But both clubs said they benefited by Monday's trade.

General Manager John Quinn and Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phils said Dark 37, would be a steady influence on their young infield.

Dayton Roosevelt, Van Del Rated as No. 1 Cage Teams

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 993 high school basketball team—432 in Class AA and 561 in Class A—represented by 25,782 boys, are racing toward the state championship showdown.

In rather skimpy voting today, with only 22 sports writers participating, the opening Associated Press poll of the year tagged Dayton Roosevelt's unbeaten Teddies (10-0) as the No. 1 team in the larger school list, and Little Van Del of Van Wert County as the best of the smaller contingent. The Rockets has a 12-0 record.

But while the hot-shots are tuning up for tournament play, two Trumbull County clubs meet tonight in an attempt to halt long losing streaks. The game will be as hard fought as if a title rested on the outcome.

In the contest is Gustavus, riding a 59-game losing streak which extends back to the 1955-56 season. The Tomcats have dropped eight in a row this year, but could end the whole thing by outpointing Bloomfield which has lost all 10 starts this season.

Cleveland East Tech, winner of the Class AA crown the last two years, was rated second to Dayton Roosevelt in the poll despite a 7-1 record. The Scarabs were dumped by Cleveland Collingwood in the opener, but have won seven straight since for new coach Joe Howell. Salem, with 5-1, was rated third, a poll point ahead of Portsmouth's once-beaten Trojans.

Ashland, matching Roosevelt's 10-game streak, was fifth, followed by unbeaten Lakewood and twice-defeated Elyria. Springfield, second to Massillon's champions in the final football poll, was two points ahead of the round-ball Tigers, each with 7-2, while unbeaten Canton Timken rounded out the Top 10.

The Class A list was studded with unbeaten teams, but Carthage-Troy, with 13-0 for the state's best mark, wound up 11th.

From here and there Edgerton, defending Class A state champ, defeated Paulding 74-58 last week but received only one sixth place vote in the poll. Dayton Roosevelt has won its last 38 regular season games, but has faltered in the tournament tests.

County tournament play for the Class A squads ends Feb. 27, with the sectionals for both classes ending March 5, the districts March 19, the regionals March 19. The state tournament is booked for March 25-26 at Ohio State's St. John Arena.

Dave Wait of Ashland is averaging 24.5 for 10 wins. Mansfield is heading for the worst year in its athletic history—the Tigers lost 10 straight in football, and six in basketball so far.

Portsmouth's Mike Haley, a junior, scored 32 in the Friday win over Lima. Springfield defeated Middletown 67-65 the first time in more than 15 years the Wildcats have trimmed the Middies twice in a season.

Marietta, with seven straight, has outscored the foe 517 to 389. And New Boston of Scioto County, a Class A school playing mostly a Class AA schedule, has beaten seven opponents by 538 to 286. New Boston's last loss in a regular season game was Dec. 17, 1957.

Dave Myers, pivot for Williamsport, tops Pickaway County in scoring with a 25.6 average for 13 games. Tom Horodyski, Vernon senior, is averaging 28.7, and Jim Novaack of Hartford 27 for 10 games.

Coliseum Practice Limited

Pickaway County coaches, supervising principals and executive heads last Thursday decided to limit teams to one game or one, two-hour practice on the County Fairgrounds' Coliseum floor prior to the February County Basketball Tournament.

The decision was made after much discussion and will in effect force the Ashville-Darby final cage season game to be played in the Darby Twp. gymnasium, which holds not more than 250 persons. It is scheduled for February 12.

Both Ashville and Darby school officials have been trying to transfer the game to a larger court, but since Darby meets Stoutsville at the coliseum and the Circleville High School gymnasium is occupied on February 12, hopes for handling a larger crowd seem doomed.

Another decision made was that all coaches are to turn in a list of 10 desired referees for the coming year's basketball tournament.

THEY MUST be turned in to George McDowell, County Superintendent, by the end of the tourney. The tournament manager then will select the referees on the basis of highest number of votes received.

The referees for this year's tourney are Bill Ankrom, Robert Moon, Ernest Ankrom, Robert Kalish, Fred Schiff, Robert Overly and Glen Hursey.

A committee of coaches was appointed to set up a 1960 county basketball league for spring competition. Those named to the committee are Paul Reiss, Walnut; Joseph Corbett, Scioto; Charles Baxter, Pickaway; Paul Hoskins, Jackson, and Richard Everman, Monroe.

Tigers Slated For Contests

Matmen Go Friday; Cagers Saturday

Circleville's wrestling and basketball teams resume action Friday and Saturday.

The matmen entertain Columbus Grandview Friday and the cagers host Franklin Heights Saturday.

The first wrestling bout starts at 4 p. m. in the spacious E. Mill St. gym. The following night the reserve basketballers open the evening's doubleheader at 7 p. m.

Coach John Current's grapplers will be looking for their fifth win in six starts. Saturday the locals trimmed Pleasant View, 32-18.

The cage force of Coach Dick Snouffer will be out to defend its first place deadlock in the South Central Ohio League. The courtmen are 5-1 in the league and 5-4 for the season.

Greenfield, deadlocked with Circleville for loop first place, travels to Wilmington Friday for an important engagement. Should Wilmington win, CHS will hold sole possession of first place.

Other SCOL games Friday list Hillsboro at fast-improving Washington C. H. and Franklin Heights at Pleasant View. WCH is at Pleasant View Saturday.

Johansson Wants Lots Of Information

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, the world heavyweight champion, wants to know exactly what is going on. He is not alone.

The New York State attorney general's office is interested. So is the New York State Athletic Commission. Also Frank Hogan, the New York County district attorney.

Depending on the outcome of the conversations with these three authorities he will or will not give Floyd Patterson a chance to win back the title in New York in June. Johansson arrived Sunday night from Sweden with his adviser, Edwin Ahlquist.

The champ said he had no appointments with Roy Cohn's new eight-man promotional group that bought the rematch agreement originally held by Rosensohn Enterprises. Cohn's group recently visited Johansson in Sweden and reported everybody was real chummy.

One very important factor to be considered in all negotiations about a rematch is the fact that Johansson's entire purse for the first fight still is held in escrow by the New York commission. The Cohn group has applied for a promoter's license but the commission has taken no action as yet. No rematch contract is on file with the commission.

The matter of the ancillary rights—held by Floyd Patterson Enterprises and turned over to a closed circuit TV company in the first fight—is a stumbling block. If the same deal is in effect in a rematch contract, the promoters may have trouble getting commission approval.

Cincy Retains No. 1 Rating

California Voted No. 2 Team in U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati's unbeaten Bearcats and California's once-beaten Bears remain 1-2 in the weekly Associated Press reckoning of the nation's college basketball teams.

Texas A&M and Villanova moved up into the top 10 for the first time as they carried their perfect records well into January, and Illinois and Wake Forest dropped out in the major changes in the new weekly accounting.

The Texas Aggies overcame Baylor and Texas Christian last week for a 10-0 record and gained eighth place, formerly held by Wake Forest, and Villanova (9-0) took ninth from Illinois.

The only other change in the rankings, based on the votes of 174 sports writers and broadcasters, was Ohio State switching places with Utah, the Buckeyes moving up to fifth and the Utes dropping to seventh.

The top 10 based on 10 points for first, 9 for second, etc., with first places vote in parentheses:

1. Cincinnati (147)	1716
2. California (6)	1455
3. West Virginia (12)	1356
4. Bradley	1036
5. Ohio State	864
6. Georgia Tech (2)	688
7. Utah	412
8. Texas A & M	352
9. Villanova	263
10. Southern California	236

Second Ten
11. St. Louis	168
12. Utah State (1)	152
13. Wake Forest	144
14. Illinois	124
15. Miami (Fla.) (5)	113
16. North Carolina	86
17. Kentucky	83
18. Toledo	67
19. LaSalle	51
20. Detroit	37

Kingston Unit Is Defeated

The Kingston junior high cage squad dropped a cliff-hanger yesterday to Chillicothe St. Marys, 45-44.

Only eight seconds before the final whistle, the Redskins held a 44-43 lead and were stalling. St. Mary's Cooke pilfered the ball from a Redskin player and drove the length of the court for the winning two-pointer.

It was Kingston's second loss in 10 starts and its first defeat since Unioto turned the trick. Cooke not only notched the winning bucket but grabbed scoring honors with 18 points.

Teammate Mitchell followed with 16 markers. Vollmar led Kingston with 14 points, trailed by Nichols' 12 points and Kelley's 10. Chillicothe racked up victory No. 4 against five losses, several of which were by one point. Kingston travels to Southeastern tomorrow afternoon.

SPEEDY, SPORTY and SPIRITED Wheel Horse

The only Lawn and Garden Tractor with all these Features:

- NEW ALL-GEAR STEERING: Fully geared steering in 6 to 1 reduction for effort-less short radius turning. With ball-joint drag link. Extra large, easy-grip steering wheel.
- COMBINATION CLUTCH-BRAKE PEDAL: Clutch is automatically disengaged when 2-wheel brakes are applied. Positive clutch action smooths takeoffs and quick shifting of gears.
- TWO-WHEEL BRAKES: Instantly provide full stop safety at all speeds. Adjustable band-type.
- TRACTOR-TIRE TRACTION: Choice of clear-type rear tires that grip firm in soil or diamond tread for surface traction on your lawn. Rear—6.00 x 12" pneumatic (22" in dia.). Front tires—4.00 x 8" pneumatic (16" in dia.).
- NEW RECESSED CONTROL PANEL: Centers throttle, shut-off and choke directly in front of driver to assure simple, precise control when starting and operating Wheel Horse.
- SPEEDS TO 6 MPH: Speeds from 1 mph in low to 6 mph in high. 3 gear selections forward plus one in reverse... each with variable speed control by throttle.
- EASY TOOL ADJUSTMENT: New "Adjust-A-Lift" mechanism permits height control from driver's seat for all garden tools and many other trailing as well as front-mounted attachments. Handy lever locks in notched sector with 10 different height selections.
- BIG TRACTOR LOOK: Designed, streamlined and engineered like the big ones—authentic in every detail from new recessed control panel right down to its heavy-duty adjustable drawbar. Sparkling red, enduring enamel finish. Easy-to-clean.
- CUSTOM-CRAFTED CONSTRUCTION: Compact, heavy-duty, all steel body on husky, rugged steel chassis. Pressure lubricated with zerk fittings throughout. Takes hardest use in stride.
- EXTRA All-Gear POWER: Increased Wheel Horse engine power teams with tremendous 108-to-1 gear reduction to develop abundant power for the toughest of jobs. Gear train helps eliminate excessive wear on brakes by maintaining safe, moderate speeds on hills and terraces.

SURPRISE PRICE

The average car buyer, we've found, thinks Mercury costs hundreds of dollars more than it actually does. It's so beautifully styled, so superbly built. It comes as a pleasant surprise that a Mercury costs so little more than the leading low-price name car—only $36* more for this Monterey 4-door sedan. No wonder Mercury sales are up more than any other car in its field—a big 48%.

1. Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness and consideration during the recent illness and at the death of our dear loved husband, father, and grandfather, Mr. H. R. James. Words cannot express our loss. Special thanks to the Rev. O. F. Gibbs and Rev. Frank Adams for their comforting words and message at the service. To the singers and accompanist, Mrs. Fannie Green, Mrs. Lucille Kirkwood, Mr. Monford Kirkwood, and Mrs. Vernel Thomas for our special hymns so beautifully sung. To the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home, Dr. Ned Griner and nurses, and the Paul Beavers.

Mrs. Anna James, children and grandchildren.

Marion Attorney Is Elected State Education Panel Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Charlton Myers, 49, a Marion attorney, is the new president of the Ohio Board of Education.

Myers, a graduate of Miami and Ohio Northern universities, took over his post Monday night at the board's monthly meeting.

Wayne Shaffer, 37, a Bryan attorney, was elected vice president.

Both terms are for two years. The new 10-member board also was sworn in by Carl V. Weygandt, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court. They include:

William T. Moore, Euclid; Francis Spicer, Akron; Josephine Walker, Cleveland; William G. Gamme, Berlin Heights; Ruth D.

Top Sportsmen Slated at Fete

Columbus Touchdown Club Meets Friday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sportsdom's top talent from many fields convenes here Jan. 15 for a series of awards at the Columbus Touchdown Club's fifth annual banquet. Syracuse University's national champions will be honored as the best college football team with the most demanding schedule, and Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder, coach of the champs, as the top collegiate mentor.

Billy Cannon of Louisiana State has been named the outstanding college football player, with Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts the No. 1 professional star. Weeb Ewbank of the champion Colts is the pro grid coach of the year.

Others to be honored include: Harvey Haddix, Pittsburgh Pirates; Walt Alston and Larry Sherry, Los Angeles Dodgers; Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs; Early Wynn, Chicago White Sox; Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen," Don Miller, Jimmy Crowley, Elmer Layden and Harry Stuhldreher, with their captain, Adam Walsh. Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox gets a trophy as Athlete of the Decade, Hank Marino as Bowler of the Half-Century, and Jesse Owens as Track Man of the Century.

Honored as best of the year at their sport are:

Frank McKinney Jr., of Indiana, swimmer; Jerry West of West Virginia, basketball; Jackie Nicklaus of Columbus, amateur golf, featherweight champion Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, boxer; Pete Newell of California, college basketball coach; Ray Norton of San Jose State, track; Roger Davis of Syracuse, college football lineman; Sam Huff of New York Giants, pro lineman, and Ray Berry, Colts, pro football end.

Bucks Romp; Miami Also Collects Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State's offense may be built around Jerry Lucas but they didn't need him Monday night as the potent Buckeyes annihilated the Delaware Blue Hens 109-38.

Lucas sat on the bench in street clothes resting his sprained ankle as his teammates ran up the highest score ever by an Ohio State team. The 50 field goals the Bucks poured through the nets also established a new mark.

The previous high total was 106 points against Michigan in 1959 and against Miami (Fla.) in 1953. The field goal record was 46, set in the Michigan game.

The visiting Hens, now 2-10, were never able to cope with the speed, size and shooting ability of the Buckeyes (10-2). Even with substitutes playing most of the game Ohio State ran up a whopping 57-16 lead at the half and continued where it left off in the second half.

Bobby Knight, sophomore substitute from Orrville, led the scoring with 15 points. Joe Roberts and Mel Nowell each contributed 14.

The Bucks tallied on 58 per cent of their shots from the field, netting 50 of 86. Delaware, meanwhile, hit on only 15 of 69 for under 22 per cent.

In the other games in Ohio Monday night, Miami (3-8) rose up to upset Xavier (9-4), 82-74, and Youngstown (7-5) dumped Steubenville (6-3), 79-69.

Herb Rowan scored 18 points and Jim Hamilton 16 in guiding the Redskins to their victory. Miami led 34-31 at intermission.

Twyman Still Top Pro Cage Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Because he's played eight more games, Cincinnati's Jack Twyman continues to lead Philadelphia's star rookie, Wilt Chamberlain, in the National Basketball Assn. scoring race.

Weekly league statistics released today show Twyman has scored 1,413 points in 45 games to 1,378 in 37 by Chamberlain. On a per-game basis, Chamberlain is well ahead with a 37.2 average to 31.4 for Twyman.

Chamberlain actually has been stepping up his pace, with a 42-point average in his last 10 games.

Mayne, Dayton; John J. Gallagher, Cleveland; Ralph S. Regula, Navarre; Cecil M. Sims, Piqua; Walter E. Beckford, Cincinnati, and Edward C. Ames, Toledo.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle told the board that enrollment in Ohio public schools will increase from the present 1,900,000 to between 3,100,000 and 3,200,000 by 1970.

The board also adopted proposed standards for a summer school program from children of Ohio's migrant farm laborers.

The program, approved during the last session of the Legislature, will affect 90 to 1,200 children. It enables children who travel from place to place to get their basic education, regardless of what school district they are in.

An approved summer school will be open at least five hours a day, five days a week for a minimum of six weeks during the summer months. The classes will be primarily remedial, and at least half the time will be devoted to reading, arithmetic, spelling and oral and written English.

Some $175,000 has been appropriated for the program.

The board decided to withhold revocation action against Glenford-Hopewell High School in Perry County after the school district said a new high school is under construction to which Glenford-Hopewell will be assigned.

The board last month voted to revoke the charter effective June 30. The action was postponed at least a year.

In other action, the board: Voted in favor of another Statehouse conference on education although the state board said it would not necessarily be a sponsor.

Approved the 1960 budgets for the 88 county boards of education. The budgets total $4,281,432 of which $2,048,997 is from state funds. The state amount is $359,432 more than in 1959.

Rescinded action to give Wayne Township Local School District of Montgomery County and Madison Local School District in Lake County funds for construction. The locals have obtained their own money.

Appointed John Parsons, executive head of Western Local School District (Meigs County), as supervisor of transportation of the Ohio Department of Education. He replaces Frank D. Cochran, assigned to the state agency of property utilization.

Approved intent to revoke the first-grade charter of Jackson Rural High School, Hoytville, Wood County, at the close of the 1959-1960 school year.

Granted Lakeland Local School District, Harrison County, additional state funds for construction bids amounting to $25,878.

How Weather Looks Today

HOW WEATHER LOOKS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Rain spread into the extreme western section of Ohio late Monday night. The rain began as freezing rain when it reached the northwest portion early this morning and hazardous driving conditions.

By this morning the rain had spread over all sections of the state except the extreme north east.

Temperatures this morning ranged from 30 at Youngstown to 44 at Cincinnati. Columbus had 37, Dayton 38 and Cleveland 35.

The major feature on this morning's weather map is a strong southerly flow of warm, moist air from the Gulf moving toward Ohio. The leading edge of the warm, moist air will reach the southern portion of the state this morning, the central portion this afternoon, and will cover the entire state by tonight.

Rain will diminish to a few showers tonight, and unseasonably warm weather with scattered showers is indicated for Wednesday.

Columbus had received .17 inch of rain by early morning, Toledo .16, Dayton .15 and Findlay .23 inch.

Celtic Drive
Sputters to Near Halt

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Less than two weeks after dominating the National Basketball Assn., picture, the Boston Celtics scoring machine today is sputtering on the verge of serious trouble.

The reasons: The loss of Jim Loscutt, Bill Russell's ailing ankle and an old St. Louis hex.

Loscutt, defense star, must undergo surgery later this week to correct a slipped disc. He is through for the year.

Boston has lost five of its seven starts since Jim was hurt at St. Louis Dec. 30 when the Celtics tied the NBA winning streak record at 17.

Loscutt was out with a knee cartilage two years ago when Boston lost the playoff finals to St. Louis. In the third game of that series—at St. Louis—6 foot-10 center Russell, another defensive specialist, was sidelined by an injury.

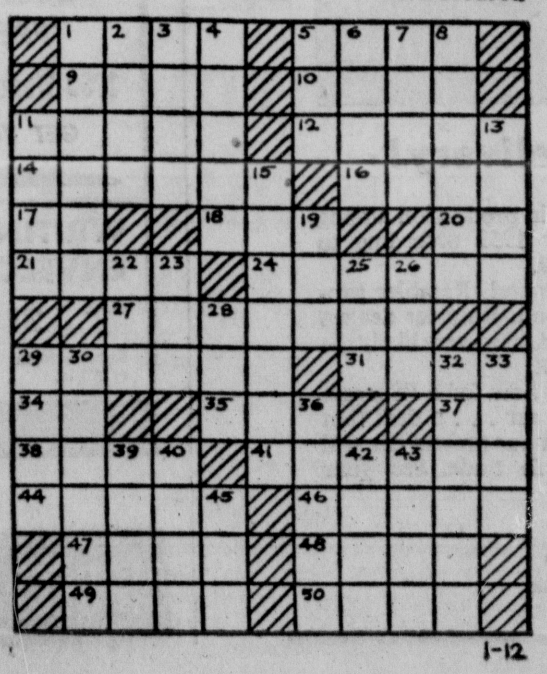

Russell is currently out indefinitely with a sprained left ankle he sustained at St. Louis Sunday. However trainer Buddy Leroux said the ankle is responding to treatment.

Bucks Romp; Miami Also Collects Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State's offense may be built around Jerry Lucas but they didn't need him Monday night as the potent Buckeyes annihilated the Delaware Blue Hens 109-38.

Lucas sat on the bench in street clothes resting his sprained ankle as his teammates ran up the highest score ever by an Ohio State team. The 50 field goals the Bucks poured through the nets also established a new mark.

The previous high total was 106 points against Michigan in 1959 and against Miami (Fla.) in 1953. The field goal record was 46, set in the Michigan game.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Arthur Deal Jr.
Phone YU 3-4117

The Ashville Garden Club will hear Harford Renick, president of the Pickaway County Historical Society, as guest speaker at 8 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Floyd Hook.

The Ashville Women's Civic Club and guests met Thursday evening in the Methodist Church for its monthly meeting.

Mrs. William Snyder introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Ray Carroll of Circleville, who showed two films. A informative discussion followed the films with many questions being answered by Dr. Carroll.

Mrs. Felix Dore reported that two needy families of our community and the Columbus State Hospital was benefited at Christmas time with gifts from our club.

The club voted to make a donation to the Cancer Society and the March of Dimes. Mrs. George Gardner, chairman of the Ashville Community Polio Drive, appealed to the club for help in making the door-to-door canvass on January 28. The club voted to help with this project.

A petition from the Pickaway County Historical Society was passed among the group to sign to preserve the remaining two covered bridges in the county.

THE BASTIAN Funeral Home made the following ambulance runs this past week: January 4 took Lois Pollard to University Hospital and Thursday took Fred Curry to Mercy Hospital where he died Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison and daughters, former residents of Circleville, are now residing in the Burton Apartments on W. Main St. in Ashville. Mrs. Morrison is the former Belva Lou Eccard.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bastian, Paul and David, visited with friends in Marion Sunday.

The Ashville - Harrison Volunteer Fire Department answered a call Friday at 1:45 p.m. at the Floyd Hook property on Main St., occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Day and family and Mrs. Molly Powell. The loss was estimated at $7,000 on the building, $2,000 on the O'Day contents and $500 on the Powell contents.

At 2:45 p.m. the same day they made a hurried trip to the rear of the I.G.A. Store where a trash fire got out of control. No loss was reported.

We take our hats off to the people.

Kennedy Campaign To Start Jan. 25

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy will kick off his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination Jan. 25 with a visit to New Hampshire which holds the nation's first presidential primary of 1960.

Democratic National Committee man Bernard L. Boutin said today Kennedy will also make several tours of New Hampshire within a three-week period after Jan. 25. Kennedy probably will make appearances in Manchester and Nashua on his first trip. They are the two largest cities in the state and homes of many of its Democrats.

Kennedy's name was entered in New Hampshire's primary only minutes after the opening of the filing period last Friday.

Rail Union Files Warning

'Attractive' Package Contract Demanded

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's railroads are in for labor trouble if they expect to settle current negotiations with "a less attractive package" for rail workers than the steelworkers just received, a Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen executive asserted.

William J. Weil, general secretary-treasurer of the BRT, issued the Monday night statement. It was taken by followers at the union's convention here to mark an opening at a campaign to displace W. P. Kennedy as the union's president.

The steelworkers got about 40 cents an hour over three years in the settlement earlier this month. So far in contract talks the railroads have asked for a reduction of 15 cents in hourly wages and work-rule changes to eliminate what they call "featherbedding" practices.

Weil said that in 1955-57, the railroads cut loose 100,000 employees and in the same period named 190 new executives to "top posts" and total management salary increases totaled $21,800,000.

"The men who are screaming at labor to modify its demands are men who are making as much as $150,000 a year for letting the greatest transportation system in the world rot in its sidings," Weil said.

Between 1923 and 1959 railroad employment shrank from 1,800,000 to 820,000, but the number at the managerial level remained at 16,000, he asserted.

"Why not let 1,000 managers off the payroll and save millions of dollars?" Weil asked.

Pepper Blamed In Death of Infant Boy

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—When Marcel Smallwood was six months old the Home Missionary Child Care Society of Philadelphia placed him in the home of a Levittown couple.

His foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Forsberg, grew to love the boy in the 15 months he was with them. They planned to adopt him and his sister, Denise, 4, who came into the Forsberg home later.

But Marcel had a temper tantrum Saturday night at the dinner table and ran into a bedroom crying. Mrs. Forsberg, 28, placed some pepper on his tongue as punishment.

The boy began reacting strangely. Mrs. Forsberg tried to give him water but to no avail. She telephoned a doctor who advised her to call an ambulance.

Awaiting the ambulance, Mrs. Forsberg administered artificial respiration. Marcel was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Coroner Wilmer Trinkle said an autopsy showed the boy died of "asphyxiation due to inhalation of pepper." No charges were filed.

The Forsbergs have one other child of their own, Paul Jr., 2.

Farm Bureau Member Drive Moves into High Gear

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau moved into high gear with a "Kick Off" rally for membership last night at the Presbyterian Church.

Dick Tootle, Farm Bureau Trustee and chairman of the membership committee, presided at the session. According to officials, the whirlwind campaign got off to a good start.

Don Pollitt, organization director, played a role in the meeting by outlining methods and procedures for the 1960 drive.

Guest speaker was Morris E. Alton, Westerville, Ohio Farm Bureau Director of Public Affairs. He gave an interesting talk on the membership drive throughout Ohio. He commended the local Farm Bureau for its solid efforts so far in the campaign.

SPECIAL guests included "Bucky" Farm Bureau, done up in a costume designating a large symbolic to Ohio. Also on hand were Clair Bardo, district sales manager of Nationwide Insurance from Lancaster, Milton Grist, local Nationwide agent, Don Rolfe, manager of the local Farm Bureau Co-op.

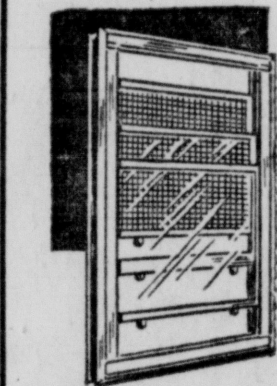

The membership drive will terminate here Saturday. The goal has been set at 612 members, same as in 1959. Officials said 354 already are on the roster.

A recognition party will be held January 19 at the Presbyterian

New Blood Recruitment Plan Placed in Operation Here

Recognizing the need for a more effective blood recruitment program the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross has reorganized with E. G. Grigg as general chairman.

recruitment was presented to the group.

Last night Grigg hosted a meeting at the local General Electric plant. At that time an indoctrination and education program showing the need for blood

Carl Braley, Blood recruitment officer from the Columbus Regional office, showed slides and a film on the operation and need for the American Red Cross Blood Program in Pickaway County.

A question and answer session followed in which those present displayed interest and enthusiasm for making the 1960 Blood Recruitment Drive a success.

Grigg has named as his vice chairman: Dr. R. N. Phillips, head of the City and Circleville Township recruiting; Dr. R. E. Heckert leading the business and industry group; C. T. Gilmore who will be the county recruiter;

DR. R. G. SMITH heads the medical society and Red Cross committee; R. M. Johnson handles publicity and education; L. E. Goeller Jr., personnel and advisor committee;

A. J. Williamson representing the Hospital, and M. C. Kirkwood, Registration and Services committee.

The local Rotary Club has undertaken boosting this blood recruitment program for 1960 and many of its members have volunteered to help as chairmen and workers.

Pickaway County fell far short of its 1959 quota of 1,200 pints of blood. County and City residents donated only 650 pints causing physicians and Red Cross officials many anxious hours locating emergency donors.

Dr. Smith told the group the need for blood donors is continuous in Pickaway County, and cited needs at that very moment in Berger Hospital.

Volunteer workers present at this meeting were: Mrs. L. D. Varble, Circleville Residential chairman; J. L. Chilcote, teachers; Ed Ebert, special groups; Earl W. Palm, Circleville Township;

Mrs. Walter W. Ehmling, North End; J. H. Dennis, business chairman;

Leroy Slusser, mens' service clubs; Marvin Jenkins, industry, Philip Hines, industry; J. R. MacKenzie, industry;

Robert Conaway, County; Ray Parcher, business; E. Carroll White, industry; P. H. Hardy, business; Mrs. Roy S. Parmer, residential;

Jack Miller, residential; Mrs. Glen Justice, residential; Mrs. R. H. Holt, residential; Mrs. E. Carroll White, residential; D. L. Vogel, business and industry; H. W. Diehl, Circleville Rotary Club President.

The next Bloodmobile visit is Friday. The quotas are, Residential and organizations, 60 pints; County, 30 pints; and Business and Industry, 95 pints. Anyone wishing to donate may contact any of the above mentioned workers for information.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Arthur Deal Jr.
Phone YU 3-4117

The Ashville Garden Club will hear Harold Renick, president of the Pickaway County Historical Society, as guest speaker at 8 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Floyd Hook.

The Ashville Women's Civic Club and guests met Thursday evening in the Methodist Church for its monthly meeting.

Mrs. William Snyder introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Ray Carroll of Circleville, who showed two films. A informative discussion followed the films with many questions being answered by Dr. Carroll.

Mrs. Felix Dore reported that two needy families of our community and the Columbus State Hospital was benefited at Christmas time with gifts from our club.

The club voted to make a donation to the Cancer Society and the March of Dimes. Mrs. George Gardner, chairman of the Ashville Community Fund Drive, appealed to the club for help in making the door-to-door canvas on January 28. The club voted to help with this project.

A petition from the Pickaway County Historical Society was passed among the group to sign to preserve the remaining two covered bridges in the county.

THE BASTIAN Funeral Home made the following ambulance runs this past week: January 4 took Lois Pollard to University Hospital and Thursday took Fred Curry to Mercy Hospital where he died Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison and daughters, former residents of Circleville, are now residing in the Burtner Apartments on W. Main St. in Ashville. Mrs. Morrison is the former Belva Lou Eccard.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bastian, Paul and David, visited with friends in Marion Sunday.

The Ashville - Harrison Volunteer Fire Department answered a call Friday at 1:45 p.m. at the Floyd Hook property on Main St., occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Day and family and Mrs. Molly Powell. The loss was estimated at $7,000 on the building, $2,000 on the O'Day contents and $500 on the Powell contents.

At 2:45 p.m. the same day they made a hurried trip to the rear of the L.G.A. Store where a trash fire got out of control. No loss was reported.

We take our hats off to the people.

Kennedy Campaign To Start Jan. 25

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy will kick off his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination Jan. 25 with a visit to New Hampshire which holds the nation's first presidential primary of 1960.

Democratic National Committee member Bernard L. Boutin said today Kennedy will also make several tours of New Hampshire within a three-week period after Jan. 25. Kennedy probably will make appearances in Manchester and Nashua on his first trip. They are the two largest cities in the state and homes of many of its Democrats.

Kennedy's name was entered in New Hampshire's primary only minutes after the opening of the filing period last Friday.

Rail Union Files Warning

'Attractive' Package Contract Demanded

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's railroads are in for labor trouble if they expect to settle current negotiations with "a less attractive package" for rail workers than the steelworkers just received, a Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen executive asserted.

William J. Weil, general secretary-treasurer of the BRT, issued the Monday night statement. It was taken by followers at the union's convention here to mark an opening of a campaign to displace W. P. Kennedy as the union's president.

The steelworkers got about 40 cents an hour over three years in the settlement earlier this month. So far in contract talks the railroads have asked for a reduction of 13 cents in hourly wages and work-rule changes to eliminate what they call "featherbedding" practices.

Weil said that in 1953-57, the railroads cut loose 100,000 employees and in the same period named 190 new executives to top posts and total management salary increases totaled $21,800,000.

Between 1923 and 1959 railroad employment shrank from 1,800,000 to 820,000, but the number at the managerial level remained at 16,000, he asserted.

"Why not top 1,000 managers off the payroll and save millions of dollars?" Weil asked.

Beginning January 10 Mary will be attending classes in a special course in advanced hairstyling conducted by an instructor from the Virginia Farrell Academy of Detroit, Mich.

The course is being sponsored by Capitol Beauty School of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. George Milson and family are planning to move this week to their new residence in Columbus. The Milsons' formerly occupied the Nellie Whitehead farm, northeast of Ashville.

LI. Col. Larry Sunderland has been confined to his home this past week due to illness. He is undergoing tests at this time at Lockbourne Air Force Base Hospital.

Mayor and Mrs. Richard Bozman are the proud parents of a son born at 7:52 p.m. January 9 in White Cross Hospital. The baby weighed 7 pounds and 12 ounces and has been named David Paul.

Mrs. George Krall, mother of Mrs. Bozman, arrived Tuesday from Iowa City, Ia. to visit with her family and help care for the family.

The Ladies Aid of the Evangelical United Brethren Church will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the church. On Friday evening the Everfaithful Class of the E.U.B. Church will meet at the parsonage. The ladies are asked to bring an old hat for the occasion.

Mrs. Ben Vause remains in Grant Hospital where she is expected to undergo surgery this week.

Individuals, teams and townships doing outstanding membership work will be given special recognition on the night of the dinner.

Local Kiwanis Holds Annual Installation

The Circleville Kiwanis Club held its annual installation banquet last night in the basement of the Presbyterian Church.

Berut C. Bennett, 556 Spring Hollow Road, was installed as President. E. R. Bennett, Knollwood Village, took the vows of vice president.

Other officers installed were Frederick Goeglein, 220 Sunset Drive, treasurer, and Robert E. Wilson, 1060 Sunshine St., secretary.

Four newly elected directors were installed. They were W. Harold Clifton, 267 S. Court St.; Roscoe Warren, 213 Linden Lane, Virgil M. Cress, 153 Montclair Ave., and James I. Smith III, 458 E. Main St.

IT WAS THE sixth annual ladies' night installation banquet. Robert H. Huffer acted as master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by Hollister K. Lanman.

After the meal, served by the ladies of the church in buffet style, Truman Eberly led the group in singing. Judy Barnhill accompanied on the piano.

Guests included Harold O. Daner, Kiwanis International trustee from Madisonville, and the Presidents and their wives from the other clubs of 10th Division.

Evan Williams, Lieutenant Governor of the 10th Division, handled the installation of the 1960 officers and directors.

Dwight Steele presented a plaque to 1959 Lieutenant Governor Judge William Ammer for outstanding service to Kiwanis.

James Carr, past president of Circleville Kiwanis, presented a plaque of appreciation to the 1959 President Dr. Richard Samuel, 890 N. Court St. Dr. Samuel in turn presented the President's gavel to Bennett, who made a short acceptance speech.

The evening's entertainment was capped by the singing of a girl's barbershop quartet, the Metta-O-Larks. Quartet members were Mrs. Metta Mae Dill, Mrs. Carolyn Peters, Mrs. Donna Fosnaugh and Louise Barr.
